CONGRESS PAYS TRIBUTE TO COOPER

TRUCE BETWEEN PARTIES BRINGS SPEEDY ACTION

Democrats Cooperate With Republicans on Most Legislation

POLITICS NOT ABSENT
Partisanship Bows to De-

World in Crisis

Washington—(AP)—Although the leaders of the Democratic party who signed a public pledge of non-partisanship just after the November elections were bitterly criticized for surrendering to the Republicans, the fact remains that the Democratic party in congress did cooperate with the Republicans and make possible the expeditious handling of legislation and the avoidance of an extra session.

As the days of the present session come to an end, partisanship has plainly been put aside on the question of getting the appropriation through.

This does not mean that partisanship was in any way suppressed in the last three months or that politics was tabooed. For the record will show about as many if not more political speeches in the present session as have been delivered in any corresponding period. But when it did come to a final vote on the drought relief and the soldiers' bonus, overwhelming support came from both parties. There has hardly been a roll call of any importance in which a strictly party line-up could be detected.

Feared Special Term

The business world, insisted that an extra session be avoided because of the uncertainty it might produce in the financial conditions of the country. Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, has kept this in mind from the beginning and while his problem has been by no means easy he has held the Democrats in line. Just what persuaded the insurgent Republicans to avoid filibusters or delays on the appropriation bills is not apparent, but it will be recalled that Senator Borah issued an indignant statement early in the session repudiating any implication that the insurgents wanted or would force an extra session.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, insisted upon some action on important measures like Muscle Shoals and this has been granted. The president probably will veto the Muscle Shoals bill and even if it is returned to congress in time for a vote it is considered doubtful whether there are enough votes to override the presidential veto.

There were plenty of opportunities for extended controversy over the appropriation bills but members of congress did not take advantage of them. Not in many years have the appropriation bills been out of the way in a short session as early as they are today. Congress could really adjourn now if it desired. The last few days however are available to clear up many important bills no one of which would be an excuse for an extra session but on which a considerable number of senators seek action.

Democrats and Republicans have worked together to complete the legislative program—they may be compelled to continue their truce so far as important legislation is concerned when congress reconvenes in December.

EX-LEADER OF MINE WORKERS IS KILLED

Pittston, Pa.—(AP)—Samuel Licata, one time fiery leader of the mine workers in the Pittston area, was slain early today near his home. He was on his way home after spending several hours in a pool when three men stepped out of an automobile and fired six bullets into him. He was first shot in the chest and as he attempted to arise five more shots were fired.

STIMSON MUM ON U. S. STAND ON NAVAL PACT

Says Final Agreement Not Officially Reported to Washington

Paris—(AP)—The French cabinet today decided that the tripartite naval agreement reached last week by Great Britain, Italy and France, was "satisfactory." It was announced after a meeting of the ministers presided over by President Doumergue. Thus France's adherence to the arrangement, which must now be submitted to the United States, Japan and the British dominions, was virtually assured.

The British foreign minister, Arthur Henderson, and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, left at midday for London after spending most of a busy forenoon denying requests printed in newspapers here which pretended to give at least parts of the text of the new arrangement.

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Stimson continued today the silence which has been maintained by the state department on the British, French and Italian negotiations toward making the London naval treaty a five power agreement.

The question was being negotiated in Europe, he said, and while the United States had been informed of the steps as the negotiations went along, it had not yet been informed of a final definite agreement. Pending receipt of the text of the agreement and more information on it, Stimson said he would neither comment nor speculate.

The secretary declined to discuss the question of senate ratification or as to whether he would attend any meeting for the signature of the modifications of the London treaty.

In response to inquiries by newspapermen regarding a statement by Le Matin, Parisian newspaper, that battleships would be limited to 26,000 tons, the secretary said it was the first time he had heard of any such proposal. There appeared no doubt that the secretary felt the United States would have been informed officially if any such proposal to affect American capital ships was contemplated.

MOTHER AND SON FREED IN MURDER

Mrs. Rose Nichols and Lawrence Nichols Are Acquitted by Jury

Antigo—(AP)—Mrs. Rose Nichols, 43, and her son, Lawrence, 23, today were free of charges of complicity in the slaying of the former's brother, John Murphy, Deerbrook farmer.

A circuit court jury acquitted them as accessories of Curtis Cockerham, farmhand, confessed slayer of the 65-year old man.

Cockerham, apprehended a few hours after Murphy's body was found near his farm last December, said he shot Murphy because "Rose and the boy" asked him to "get rid of the old man." Cockerham admitted writing love letters to Mrs. Nichols. There was no indication, authorities said, as to her reply.

He said the couple promised him an automobile if he would kill Murphy so they could obtain the farm on which they lived with the aged farmer. Another witness said Lawrence offered $100 to any neighbor who would kill his uncle.

The jury was out four hours.

Business Outlook Shows Improvement, Barnes Says

Washington—(AP)—The business horizon, finds Julius H. Barnes, is clearing. Things are getting better, signs are optimistic.

Such is the report of the chairman of President Hoover's National Business survey conference for the midwinter season not only in the United States but abroad as well where the clouds of depression seem pushed back by the light of confidence and energy.

Some of the bright spots he reported:

"Recurring demonstration that industry generally has attained an adjustment of stocks, production and marketing in which even a moderate expansion in demand will have immediate results.

"Evidence that reduced city spending reflects into lower farm prices for products in which there

NORDBYE NOMINATION SHELVED IN SENATE

Washington—(AP)—The nomination of Gunnar H. Nordbye to be a federal judge for Minnesota was laid aside today by the senate judiciary committee at its last meeting of the session without action.

Failure to act virtually killed the nomination, which dies unless confirmed before the adjournment of the session on Wednesday. After another hearing of the contest against Nordbye the judiciary subcommittee, headed by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, declined to submit a report to the whole committee pending receipt of additional evidence.

10 Lives Lost In Mexican Theatre Fire

Police Try to Identify Victims—Building Erected in 1752 by Monks

Mexico City—(AP)—At least ten persons were burned to death and scores or more were injured when the 175-year-old Principal theatre burned at the end of a midnight performance today. The ruins were still smoldering when firemen brought out the eight bodies and took them to a police station for identification.

At 10 o'clock this morning when the ten bodies, all badly burned, had been taken from the ruins of the theatre, police reported that they had sighted four others in the debris.

Carmen Velasco, one of the actresses, escaped from the burning building but sustained an effort to rescue a friend, and lost her life. Another actress, Lupe Rosales, and a number of scene shifters were also among the victims. Roberto Soto, famous Mexican comedian, had been ill and although scheduled to appear was not in the theatre when the fire broke out.

A few hours after the fire the interior of the theatre was a mass of twisted steel and charred timbers, making recovery of the bodies difficult.

The owner of the building, his wife and five small children, trapped up stairs by the flames, were saved by firemen who emulated circus performers to get to them. Their ladders lacked five feet of reaching to the balcony on which they stood. The firemen climbed to the top of the ladders and held out their arms to catch the children and their parents as they jumped.

The theatre was built in 1752 by monks to stage benefit performances. In those days Mexico City still had many canals for streets and there are stories of the viceroys, who, attending performances, were brought up to the theatre door in gondolas.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY OF SHARING STOLEN LOOT

Racine—(AP)—Charged with having received some of the loot obtained when the farm home of Edward and Frank Brice near North Cape, was burglarized of $11,000 in valuables last October, Walter Bridnick and his wife, Mary, entered pleas of guilty in municipal court today.

Bridnick was sentenced to serve one to two years in Waupun and then placed on probation. His wife was fined $700, but in default of payment was sentenced to jail for six months.

Two sons of the couple are awaiting trial on charges of burglarizing the Brice home.

MINOR BILLS ARE DEBATED BY CONGRESS

Only Million Dollar Deficiency Measure Remains as Big Issue

Washington—(AP)—With all major legislation except the $100,000,000 deficiency bill out of the way, congress devoted its attention today to minor measures.

The senate found it was not yet through with veterans' bonus legislation when Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, introduced a measure to permit loans to be made on veterans' adjusted compensation certificates as soon as issued, instead of requiring them to be two years old.

The senate adopted the house resolution sponsored by the treasury department to authorize that department to issue bonds to the extent of eight billion dollars to meet the maturing of Liberty Loan bonds within the next few years.

Approval Investigation

The senate's agriculture committee approved an investigation, proposed by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, into agricultural conditions, the report to be made to the next session of congress.

The house ways and means committee approved an investigation into conditions surrounding products for which embargoes have been urged during this session. This committee also approved a resolution instructing the tariff commission to investigate the crude oil situation.

The house passed by 285 to 83, the Jenkins bill to reduce by 90 percent the number of immigrants admitted from all countries during the next two years.

The Bacon bill to prevent reductions in postmasters' salaries because of smaller receipts during business depression was approved by the house postoffice committee, which amended it to make it apply to only the 1932 fiscal year.

MATERNITY MEASURE SENT TO PRESIDENT

Washington—(AP)—Congressional action was completed today on the Jones-Cooper Maternity and Infancy and Rural Health Aid bill with house approval of a conference report. The senate acceded to house amendments incorporating the rural health program.

The bill, which now goes to the president, would authorize $1,000,000 a year for federal aid to states in mothers' and infants' welfare work on the dollar matching principle of the Sheppard-Towner act.

It would authorize annual appropriations increasing from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 over five years, for federal participation in a nation-wide rural health set up.

PORTER ALL THROUGH WITH COMMISSION

Madison—(AP)—Philip Porter, Madison, former member of the state railroad commission, today severed all connections with the commission.

Mr. Porter announced he has resigned as law examiner for the commission to enter private law practice. In 1920 he was appointed to the commission by former Gov. Walter Kohler to succeed the late Lewis Gettle, Madison.

Shortly after Gov. Philip LaFollette assumed office Mr. Porter sent in his resignation. It was expected that the governor would replace him with his own appointee. His resignation was accepted but he remained with the commission as law examiner.

EDNA MAY COOPER FOUND IN HOSPITAL

San Francisco—(AP)—A dispatch to the Call-Bulletin from a staff correspondent today said Edna May Cooper, movie actress and aviatrix missing from Hollywood for a week, was located today in a Monterey, Calif., hospital where she was being treated for "nervous indigestion."

The dispatch said Miss Cooper, who holds jointly with Bobby Trout the women's world endurance flying record, was identified by Gouverneur Morris, the author, and his wife, who had met her at Hollywood. Miss Cooper was registered for five days at the hotel San Carlos as Miss Caroline Hope, the report said.

290 TO BE DEPORTED

New York—(AP)—A group of 290 men, women and children aliens arrived at Ellis island today to await deportation. They have been ordered out of the country by federal officials at hearings in various cities. Twenty of the aliens are insane and arrived in strait-jackets.

WOMAN 70, IS DEAD

Union Grove, Wis.—(AP)—Mrs. Hester Stillwell, 70 years old, died at her home here today. She was born in Canada, May 11, 1829.

Faces Trial For Murder Of Kinsman

Ripon—(AP)—Charged with the slaying of her brother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Steeps was bound over to the May term of circuit court without bail today. Her relative by marriage Augustus E. Branchaud, 52, was found, bullet wounds in the back and one leg, on the floor of a soft drink parlor operated by his son-in-law.

District Attorney L. E. Gooding said the shooting was the climax of a long family quarrel.

As felony cases are not admissible to bail in the municipal court, Mrs. Steeps will have to apply to Circuit Judge Clayton VanPelt, Fond du Lac, if she desires release pending trial.

Only three witnesses testified today at the woman's preliminary hearing, and their testimony concerned only the finding of the body, the nature of the wounds and other factual matters.

Mrs. Steeps was acquitted last year of charges of attempting to kill her former husband's housekeeper. Branchaud furnished bond for her at that time, but later withdrew it, forcing her to remain in jail pending trial. She threatened his life several times after that, Mr. Gooding said he had been informed.

Police said they found a revolver in Mrs. Steeps' possession when they arrested her shortly after the finding of Branchaud's body, Feb. 22.

HEAVY SNOWFALL BLANKETS EUROPE

Large Part of British Isles and Continent Swept by Storms

London—(AP)—The greater part of Europe and the British Isles were under snow today. A biting wind plied the white blanket high in places and in others swept the ground bare. Bitter cold prevailed.

Extreme winter conditions prevailed over most of the continent. Traffic was held up in many places, highways and railways were blocked in Sweden and telephone and telegraph lines were down in Denmark.

Snowfall in the British Isles varied from two to three inches in the south to seven to eight inches in the north with deep drifts in the mountain districts of Scotland, Wales and Ulster. Sheep farmers suffered severe losses of stock.

The gale which accompanied the snow raised dangerous seas in the channel and North sea which claimed several victims. Sixteen were believed to have perished near Brasterburgh, Scotland, when a Dutch trawler turned over off shore and conditions were too bad to attempt rescue. One body was washed ashore.

BANK ROBBER SUSPECT IS ON WITNESS STAND

Madison—(AP)—Charged with participating in the robbery of the Mt. Horeb bank last October, Stanley Ford, 32, Chicago, took the witness stand in his own behalf at his trial here today.

Defense Counsel Lawrence Hall, Madison, in presenting his opening statement, said the combined forces of the Wisconsin Bankers' association and of the American Bankers' association are arraigned against his client.

REPULSE REBEL ATTACK

Progressive Blocs Of Two Parties Asked To Confab

Washington—(AP)—A call for a conference of progressives of both parties to meet here March 11 for a round table discussion was sent forth today.

It was sponsored by five senators—Norris, Nebraska; LaFollette, Wisconsin; and Cutting, New Mexico, Republicans, and Wheeler, Montana, and Costigan, Colorado, Democrats. Costigan becomes a senator on March 4.

The call specifies that the organization of a third party is not contemplated. Among the subjects to be considered will be the power issue.

Norris described the meeting as an "economic conference" with a purpose of determining the causes and cure for depression.

Five governors have been invited and have signified their intention of attending. They are Roosevelt of

URGE CAREFUL SCRUTINY BY U. S. OFFICERS

Eight Findings Listed by Senate Price Investigating Committee

Washington—(AP)—The senate's food price investigating committee today recommended "careful scrutiny" by the Federal Trade commission and the justice department of "an alarming tendency toward the monopolistic control" of the nation's food by "a small group of powerful corporations and combinations."

The recommendation was embodied in the committee's report to the senate of its inquiry into the prices of bread, meats, sugar and milk.

"Within the past few years the absorption of independent bakers and milk distributors by gigantic, nationwide corporations, holding companies, mergers, and chain enterprises, has been carried forward with amazing rapidity," the report said.

"The committee recommends the careful scrutiny of this development by the Federal Trade commission and the department of justice.

"If existing laws are not sufficient to control these mergers and combinations in the public interest the agencies above named should recommend to the congress such remedial legislation as they deem necessary."

Among other findings were:

1—That the retail price of bread has not declined proportionately with the price of wheat.

2—That there should be an immediate reduction of at least 1 cent a pound in the wholesale prices of bread throughout the country and a corresponding or larger reduction in retail prices.

Cites Bread Prices

3—Some evidence that trade is a combination in restraint of efforts to fix and maintain the retail price of bread.

4—That the wholesale and retail prices of white flour have generally reflected the decline in the price of wheat.

5—That the lower prices paid to the farmer for milk purchased for fluid purposes have in general been reflected in the retail prices charged to the consumer, but that the distributor has not borne any portion of the reduction.

6—That the reduction in price paid to the producer for milk used in the manufacture of dairy products, which is usually purchased at the surplus price, has not in general been reflected in the retail prices paid by the consumer for dairy products.

7—That the retail prices of meat have reflected the lower price received by the producer and the packer on a cents per pound basis but that the percentage of decrease in the retail price is materially less, due to the existence of too many dealers competing with each other, rather than a combination in restraint of trade.

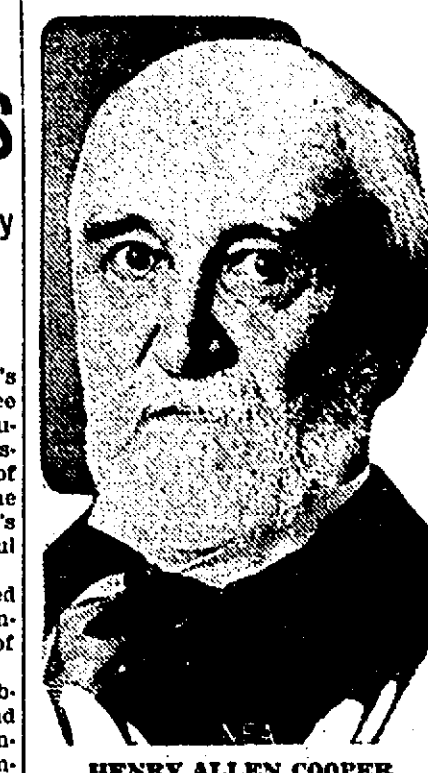

8—That the cost of distributing foods are too high and that a study of the marketing of farm products is worthy of consideration.

The report found that responsibility for the failure of the retail price of bread to reflect the decline in the price of wheat "rests primarily upon the large wholesale bakery companies, which have failed to pass on to the consumer the recent reductions in the costs of their ingredients."

INVESTIGATE SUICIDE IN JAIL AT ANTIGO

Antigo—(AP)—An inquest into the death of Delmar Rose, 21, whose body was found hanging in a city jail cell Friday, shortly after his arrest on forgery charges, was ordered today by Coroner Jake Lingie at the request of the youth's father, Grover Rose. ## Bandy Flees From Cell In Badger Jail

Sheboygan—(AP)—Sheriff's officers today sought George Gale Bandy, youthful gang leader, who escaped from jail here while awaiting trial on robbery charges.

Apprehended in Minneapolis, Bandy was returned to Wisconsin and accused as leader of a gang of 22 robbers in which loot of $50,000 value was obtained.

Sheriff's attaches said they were at loss to explain the escape unless Bandy had fashioned a key from wood and unlocked the jail doors. He was reported missing when a jail employe took food to his cell yesterday morning.

Bandy was quartered on the second floor of the jail. On his way out, apparently he locked a room just off the sheriff's office and obtained a supply of clothing and a flashlight belonging to the sheriff. To make his escape, Bandy had to go through four doors, all of which authorities reported were locked the night before.

Bandy's wife, Violet, was recently released at Ripon on charges of possessing stolen goods. She was arrested here when she came to visit her husband.

TREASURY TRYING TO MEET LOAN RUSH

Still Unable to Estimate Total to Be Paid Under Bonus Law

Washington—(AP)—Striving mightily to meet the pleas of all the needy in double-quick time while protecting the treasury from undue drain, veterans bureau officials settled down today to meet the crest of the wave of loan-seeking veterans.

They looked for the peak, just dwarfing the lines which formed Friday afternoon and Saturday at the more than fifty offices.

Meanwhile, they drilled away at every chance that came with pleas that the veterans who had no urgent need to borrow keep their loan certificates unimpaired. They combined this with urging upon individual banks to absorb as much as possible of the loan demand. Only 41 percent can be charged lawfully on the new loans authorized by congress but the veterans officials were confident many banks would see their way to make money on this business in view of current low money rates and the rocklike soundness of the security behind the certificates.

Still they could not measure the demand for money confronting them. The minimum would run to $250,000,000, the demand of those really in need. A higher figure would be $500,000,000—loans to those who already have borrowed, and they are in overwhelming majority so far among applicants. The maximum is about $1,700,000,000, a figure they hope to avoid by a large margin.

GREEN BAY MAN VICTIM OF HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Green Bay—(AP)—Green Bay's first motor fatality in 1931 was recorded today with the death of Gus Obry, father of six children. Obry died from injuries sustained when knocked from his bicycle and dragged about 70 feet by a hit and run driver.

LATE DEAN OF HOUSE LAUDED BY PRESIDENT

Both Houses Vote Hour's Recess Out of Respect to Badger Member

SERVED FOR 36 YEARS

House and Senate Delegation to Attend Funeral at Racine

Washington—(AP)—Both houses of congress recessed for an hour today out of respect for Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, dean of the house, who died yesterday.

To his widow, President Hoover wrote: "If there is any deepest sympathy in your bereavement, and I do pray that you may find consolation in the memory of his long and useful career."

In the senate, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin said representative Cooper's death was a great loss to the nation and to Wisconsin.

In the house, Representative Tilson characterized him as one of the most beloved members of that body.

Speaker Longworth is expected to appoint tomorrow a committee of about 20 members of the house to attend the funeral at Racine, including the entire Wisconsin delegation, members of the foreign affairs committee and others. The senate adopted a resolution to send a committee of 15 senators to the funeral.

Before recessing, the house adopted a resolution mourning the passing of a member of 36 years service. Tributes were paid by Representatives Francis P. Rabaglietti, Wisconsin; Moore, Democrat, Virginia; Linticum, Democrat, Maryland; and Resident Commissioner Osias and Guevara from the Philippines.

The house later unanimously adopted a resolution to appropriate $10,000 for Mrs. Cooper.

The senate quickly adopted the house resolution authorizing the payment of a year's salary, $10,000 to the widow of Representative Cooper. It now goes to President Hoover.

Saturday night, the tall, upright, white-haired member attended a prolonged house session. He left, complaining he felt ill. A few hours later—early Sunday—he died in his hotel room, his wife at his bedside. Doctors attributed the death to acute indigestion.

Representative Cooper entered the house in 1893 and served continuously with but one interruption until his death. Along with 50 others he breastened public opinion and voted against war with Germany. He met defeat at the next election.

Simple services are planned for him in Washington. Wednesday, the body will begin its journey to Racine, Wis., accompanied by the widow, Congressman and Mrs. James A. Frear and an official delegation. No elaborate service is contemplated at his home town. The body will arrive Thursday noon and will lie in state a few hours in the Memorial building prior to burial in Grace-land cemetery.

As a Progressive Republican, Representative Cooper was a close friend and admirer of the late Sen.

CAPONE FREE ON BAIL PENDING HIS APPEAL

Chicago—(AP)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today formally sentenced Alphonse Capone to six months in the county jail and accepted a new bond of $5,000 pending appeal of his contempt of court case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The gang leader's attorneys were given 30 days in which to file the bill of exceptions and Capone was given his liberty only until June 1 if by that time the case is not decided by the higher court, Capone must go to the judges of the court of appeals for further extension of time.

Capone followed the custom he set in the three days of his trial and appeared again today in a new suit. The first day he wore a blue suit, the second day gray, the third brown, and today the ensemble was green. He had nothing to say to reporters. As on the days of the trial he was given a police escort to the federal building and then back to his bodyguards.

New Peruvian Government Takes Reins From Sanchez Cerro

ELIAS CHOSEN AFTER JUNTA CHIEF QUILTS

Followers Hope New Regime Will Be Acceptable to Revolt Groups

Lima, Peru.—(P)—The revolutionaries, "southern junta," at Arequipa today refused to recognize the new Peruvian provisional government organized here yesterday.

Lima, Peru.—(P)—A new government, which its adherents hoped would prove acceptable to all Peruvians, was proclaimed today after a week and change of face by the army which sent the six months old revolutionary junta of Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro into the discard.

The head of the new government is the chief justice of the Peruvian supreme court, Dr. Ricardo Leonida Elias. Collaborating with him is Colonel Manuel Ruiz Bracho, the chief of general staff. A message was sent to Captain Alejandro Vint, commander-in-chief of the navy, at Pisco bay, asking him to join the new junta.

Hostilities with the rebel groups at Arequipa, Cuzco, Puna and Pirua were discontinued, temporarily at least.

At midnight Saturday the naval chiefs drew up a demand that Sanchez Cerro resign, and Lima's Sunday morning papers published the document.

Leaders Meet at Palace

Sunday afternoon 45 leaders of all branches of life in the capital were called to meet at the presidential palace.

The meeting was in the same dining room in which the Prince of Wales and his party were feted last night.

Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro read a long address. He reaffirmed his patriotism and declared that he had to the best of his ability lived up to his pronouncement of policy. He then announced his resignation, which he hoped would bring peace to the country.

The assembly arose and cheered again and again for the retiring president. Many had tears in their eyes as Sanchez with his ministers and some civilians left the room.

Surrendering the chairmanship to Monsignor Mariano Holguin, bishop of Arequipa and apostolic administrator.

Monsignor Holguin praised the retiring president briefly, stating that he deserved national gratitude. A motion was passed appointing a new government junta.

FORMER FELON TO BE QUIZZED IN MURDER CASE

Death of Vivian Gordon, Vice Graft Witness, Still Mystery

New York.—(P)—The New York Daily News said in copyrighted story today that Al Marks, ex-convict, would surrender for questioning in the slaying of Vivian Gordon. Marks was quoted by the News as saying that between the time Miss Gordon separated from her husband, John Blischoff, and the time she was sentenced to Bedford reformatory on a vice charge, they lived together at a hotel, with her daughter Benita.

New York.—(P)—The slaying of Vivian Gordon, who was to testify in a vice graft inquiry, bogged deep in mystery today with denials by the policeman who arrested her and her ex-husband that they railroaded her to the reformatory in 1923.

Returning from a vacation in Bermuda, Andrew J. McLaughlin was questioned at length by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and District Attorney Charles E. McLaughlin of the Bronx.

Miss Gordon flitted with him on the street, he said, and he took her to a lodging house where he made the arrest. Her accusations that her husband conspired with him to obtain control of the district were unfounded, he said. He exhibited a letter reading:

"You no doubt recall when you framed Benita Blischoff on March 9, 1923, causing her conviction for vagrancy. She is now writing to tell you she is going to appear before the vice committee and tell the whole story."

"She leaves the rest to your imagination, which she hopes is as good as when you concocted those lies about her in court."

"Yours truly, B. F. Z."

Miss Gordon, who also used the name of Benita Franklin Blischoff, was strangled and thrown out of an auto after conferring with counsel assisting referee Samuel Seabury in an inquiry into the magistrates courts.

The ex-husband, John Blischoff, business manager of the District of Columbia reformatory at Lorton, Va., denied that he even knew McLaughlin or that a plot existed between them. He obtained a divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Miss Cassie Clayton, of Erie, Pa., to whom Miss Gordon repeated in a letter her charges of framing, was brought to New York today to be questioned.

VALLEY COUNCIL GETS HIGH NATIONAL RATING

The valley council of boy scouts has received the second highest rating in the state by the National council in New York City, according to M. G. Clark, executive. The local council has attained a "B" rating, while the Racine council is first with an "A" rating. The Sheboygan council is third. The valley council would have attained first place if the population count of the organization had been used by the national organization, according to Mr. Clark. The population was recently increased from 43,000 to 51,000 when new territory was annexed.

Curran, Wet Leader, Hits At Wickersham Group And Hoover In Annual Report

Washington.—(P)—President Hoover, the Wickersham commission and the senate lobby committee drew some sharp criticism in the annual report of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, but the American people were found to be all right.

A clear majority of them, claimed Henry H. Curran, president of the association, now favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment. His review of last year's prohibition events was issued yesterday.

He claimed $60,000 as the membership total of the association.

He accused the Wickersham commission of a "bald discrepancy" in issuing a summary of conclusions that read like a "dry brief" together with a text painting the "noble experiment" as a dismal failure.

The president, he said, with his message of transmittal to congress, "virtually tore to pieces the painstaking findings and recommendations of his commission."

"Whether the commission's report, which is exhaustive and profound," he added, "can be capriciously thrown out the window because it represents a damning indictment of prohibition remains to be seen."

Curran stood staunch against the Anderson modification plan, holding for outright repeal.

He took the senate's lobby committee to task for what he called "witch-hunting tactics." That committee grilled him last year when it was searching for evidences of heavy political contributions.

"Nowhere did the prohibition cause advance an inch," he said of the year's political occurrences. On the basis of public declarations he counted an increase in the house from 76 to 160 in the anti-prohibition representation, and in the senate from 15 to 22. The number included those willing to have the prohibition amendment resubmitted to the people as well as avowed wets.

There are others, he maintained, equally willing to have the people pass on the question, who have not yet spoken.

He saw the American people accelerating in the march toward repeal, with nine states on record for return of liquor and the people of many others ready to vote on the question whenever congress gives them a chance.

PAST WEEK IS STRIKING ONE IN LEGISLATURE

Progress in Legislation, Touch of Human Interest, Marks Period

Madison.—(P)—Marked progress in legislation and a touch of human interest combined to make the seventh legislative week the most striking of the present session.

Search for Assemblyman H. A. Aune, Baldwin, who disappeared Wednesday after answering the assembly roll call, dwarfed all other legislative activity during the latter part of the week.

Passage of the Cashman highway bill in the senate 22 to 10 was the outstanding legislative news of the period.

The disappearance of Assemblyman Aune was not a certainty until Friday when Dr. C. A. Harper, of the state board of health, revealed a note in which Aune implied he was going to commit suicide. Madison police have since been searching along where Aune said his body would be found.

In passing the Cashman highway bill the senate manifested its leaning toward the Progressive administration program. The measure, which calls for a four-cent gasoline tax and repeal of the personal property tax on automobiles, is designed to aid the unemployed. One provision calls for the elimination of 91 railroad crossings.

The senate committee investigating Gov. La Follette's charge that an attempt has been made to bribe Sen. P. J. Smith, Eau Claire, regarding public utility legislation, concluded its hearings. It is expected to submit its report and recommendations to the senate this week.

The assembly week was marked by a heated debate over the Sigman bill, which would prohibit the conservation commission from taking fish for spawn in Lake Michigan and Green Bay. This measure, once killed was brought up for reconsideration and a flurry of personal exchanges between Assemblyman David Sigman, author of the bill, and Moulton B. Goff, leading opponent, ensued. The assembly refused reconsideration 46 to 38.

The Keppel ice fishing bill, too late for the relief for which it was intended, passed the assembly. Introduced at the first of the session to provide food for the poor during the winter months, the bill was approved to "relieve the minds of fishermen" who had begun to fish after the measure had passed the senate. The state game warden had told many that if the bill passed the assembly they would not be prosecuted, Assemblyman Stanley Sleggs, Edgerton, said.

Other legislation of the week was: Senate—Passed a bill setting the speed limit at 50 miles per hour on highways outside of cities; Killed a bill for a minimum wage for all working persons; received a proposal that the final date on which automobiles must be registered and licensed be extended from March 15 to May 1.

Assembly—Adopted a resolution against the University of Wisconsin's acceptance of conditional gifts from private and corporate sources; passed the blue law repealer; ordered a third reading a bill creating a governor's executive council; Speaker appointed a special committee to investigate charges that the state highway commission is being influenced by road material manufacturers.

The legislature spent Friday at Waupun inspecting the state prison. In conducting a tour of the institution Warden Oscar Lee pointed out conditions which "are a disgrace to the state."

1,249 School Children Receive Hot Lunches

More than 1,249 school children have been served their lunch this winter in the McKinley junior high school in a project begun by the girls in Miss Ruth Lindall's home arts classes.

The school luncheon was originated for those students in the grade and junior high school who lived too far away from school to go home at noon in the cold weather. The cafeteria is run on a non-profit basis, and one hot dish is served every day.

The ninth grade girls are wholly responsible for the work every day, Miss Lindall explained. Two girls work together, having complete charge of the dish preparation, the transformation of the sewing room into a dining room, the serving and the cleaning of the room. The students work on schedule which is made out each week by Miss Lindall who also prepares the menu for two weeks period. Other than this there is no supervision over the girls.

The children buy a meal ticket 25 cents through the office, and one cent marks are punched each day in the cafeteria. The three charge for meals merely covers the expenses. A course meal is not served, but one wholesome dish such as scalloped potatoes, cheese, dishes, and hot soups is prepared.

ACCUSE TENNANT OF MANY CRIMES

Youth Held in Boscobel Slaying Faces Chicago Robbery Victims

Chicago.—(P)—Maurice Tennant, accused with Miss Celina Le Claire of having participated in the fatal Boscobel, Wis., farm home raid last Nov. 11 was blamed for a lot of things today.

"This is the man responsible for half the robberies in Chicago," declared Lieut. Walter Storms as he introduced Tennant to a number of victims.

"It's a lie," yelled Tennant. "Didn't you show us fifty places you had robbed, and admit 100 others?" Storms demanded.

Just ten more victims stepped up and identified him, police said.

"Well, maybe I did do a couple of jobs, but not as many as you say," he was quoted as saying.

Nevertheless, Tennant will be viewed by residents of Boscobel in an effort to identify him as a member of the raiding party which slew two and wounded two more when the farmers resisted their efforts to find the reported buried treasure.

BE TOLERANT TO OLD WORLD, SAYS MRS. MACAULEY

Disarmament Now Is Folly, Former Auxiliary Leader Holds

A panoramic view of international affairs—disarmament, war debts, goodwill, peace, Communism, economics, universal language, rehabilitation—was given by Adella Wright Macauley, past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary and former president of Fidae, international peace organization, in her address, America through the Telescope; Europe through the Microscope, at the last twilight vesper service of the season at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon.

Weaving a picture of conditions in Europe and America around the basic thread of the need of understanding between the two continents, the speaker urged her audience to be tolerant toward the Old World, to seek to understand their problems and their viewpoints, and to work steadily and conscientiously toward international peace.

She pointed to the folly of bringing about disarmament at the present time, saying that disarmament could come only through agreement, and not through example.

"There are those who think America should disarm as an example to European countries," she said. "But they forget that Poland, Italy, France and other countries in Europe are beset by dangers that do not bother us in America. Do not let us in your attitude toward Mussolini and his militarism. Imagine yourself in Italy and perhaps you can understand the Italian viewpoint."

Europe Feels Kindly

She described the European attitude toward America, as gathered in her year on the continent in the interests of Fidae. On the whole, she said, the thinking people of Europe are kindly toward America, though they have a misapprehension of her aims. They see the United States through the press and the "noisy" tourists, as a country of wealth, high buildings, extravagance. They believe America, because she is wealthy, has no problems. They do not understand that her very wealth has brought one of her biggest problems.

She spoke of the bitterness toward America in 1929 over the war debt.

"I can see why the English father who lost two sons in the war resents paying now for the food and clothing used by those two sons in the war. The Britisher today, between the debt system tax and the war debt tax, is crushed. He pays $800 in taxes on a $5,000 annual income.

And yet Great Britain asked for no reduction of the war debt; she merely requested a funding arrangement which would give her 62 years in which to pay. Because of interest in 62 years this loan from the United States will have increased from $4,600,000,000 to $11,162,000,000, and yet, because of the difference in the interest we pay for the money borrowed by the allies and the interest they pay us, the United States loses one million dollars a day in interest.

Oppose Cancellation
"I don't approve of a cancellation of the war debt, and yet I can sympathize with the European point of view. We say they couldn't have won the war without our money, but we couldn't have survived without England's navy and France's seasoned fighters."

Speaking of France's attitude toward her war debt, Mrs. Macauley explained that much of the bitterness could have been avoided if the United States had not been forced, because of fear of Washington politicians, to keep secret the fact that in the funding of the French war debt 60 per cent of it was cancelled. She pointed out how the funding resulted in a cancellation of France's loans during the war, leaving only the amount borrowed after the war to be paid.

Fidae Seeks Peace

Mrs. Macauley discussed Fidae, explaining that it is an organization of eight million allied veterans of the World War, with an auxiliary of 500,000, banded together to bring about international peace. They know war, she said, and they seek peace. They do not want the youth of today to go through what they did, so they have undertaken the education of the younger generation as the best method of protecting the world against future wars.

Termining Fidae's program the sanest, most practical and most foresighted of all peace moves, the honorary president of the Fidae auxiliary explained that the group believes in defense but works for the peace when it will not be necessary and disarmament will be possible. It reaches patriotism, but at the same time builds toward internationalism.

In closing, Mrs. Macauley decried the attempt to minimize the importance of Communism.

"Communism is creeping into America in an insidious fashion. Don't scoff at its importance as an American problem."

ARCHITECTS TO MOVE HOME OFFICES HERE

Smith and Brandt Plan to Open Quarters in New Zuelke Building

The firm of Smith and Brandt, architects, will establish its home office here in the new Irving Zuelke building as soon as the structure is completed, according to G. L. Smith, head of the local office.

Heretofore the home offices have been located in Manitowoc, with Percy Brandt as manager. Mr. Brandt and Lee Lyons, head draftsman will move their families to the city as soon as the new offices are established, it was announced.

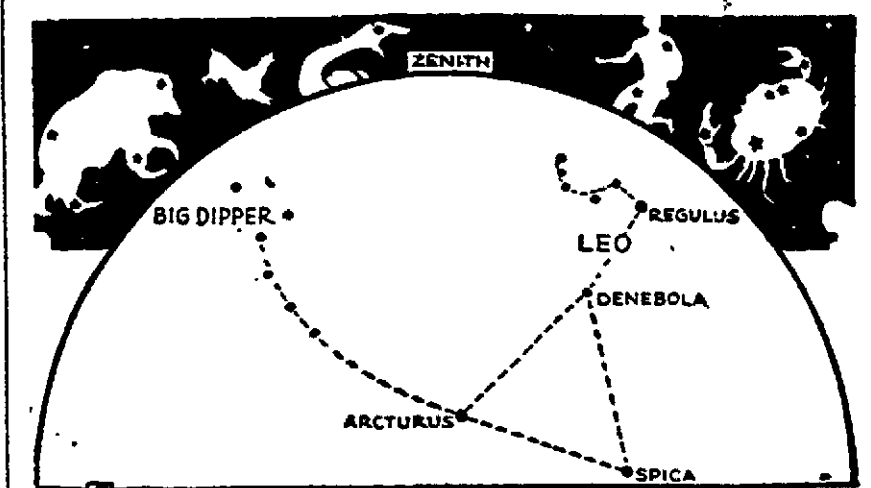

A group of draftsmen also will be brought to Appleton to work in the new office. According to preliminary sketches, the new suite of offices will consist of a reception room, general office, drafting room, blue print room, and other smaller ante-rooms.

The new Zuelke building was planned and designed by the Smith and Brandt firm.

The board of appeals will meet at 7:30 Monday evening. The requests of William Campshire, 711 N. Union-st., to construct a residence and that of Max Koletzke, 503 N. The building proposed by Campshire violates the ordinance regulating setback lines, and the Koletzke garage would interfere with the sideyard regulations.

Sky In March Presents Six Stars As "Sickle"

In the March sky about mid-evening Leo appears in the east, slightly southeast of the zenith. How stars of this group form a sickle is shown.

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—About 9 o'clock on a March night one finds in the eastern sky, just rising, the constellation of Bootes, marked by the bright star Arcturus. A little southeast of the zenith is Leo.

This is a brilliant group of stars, six of which are arranged in the form of a sickle, with the bright star Regulus at the base or handle. The top of the sickle is to the north and the blade opens toward the west.

The constellation extends from the sickle eastward to Denebola, which is half way on a line drawn from Regulus to Arcturus. The ancients saw in this group of stars, Leo, the lion. The sickle formed his head and mane and Denebola was at the end of the tail.

A spectacular and entertaining sight through an ordinary pair of field glasses is the star cluster Praesepe, or the Beehive. In Cancer. About 9 o'clock on a night in the middle of March it is on the meridian, south of the zenith.

A convenient way of locating this object is to imagine a straight line drawn from the red planet Mars to the star Regulus. The Beehive is one quarter of the way along this line from Mars.

To the naked eye, this object appears as a small hazy patch of light in the center of a small triangle of three relatively faint stars. With field glasses, the component stars of this cluster are easily distinguished and form a truly interesting sight.

This type of object is known as an open cluster and is made up of thousands of stars, all traveling together in a compact group. Such groups are fairly common in the sky and are all in our galaxy.

In the early evening, the planet Jupiter is seen in the southwestern sky. It is the brightest object in the heavens at this time, except for the moon, and shines out with a steady yellow light. The winter constellations also are still visible in the western sky in March.

Tree specimens found 120 feet below the surface in Seattle, Wash., have been identified as coast redwood, estimated to be 40,000 years old.

SHORTER HOURS GO INTO EFFECT AT OFFICE ON JULY 1

50 Clerks and Carriers Will Be Affected by New Regulations

Affecting about 50 clerks and carriers at the Appleton post office, the federal act approved on Feb. 17 by congress, establishing a 44-hour week for employees in first and second class post offices, and village carriers in third class offices, will become effective July 1, according to word received by W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster, here, from the federal postal department at Washington. The act does not apply to rural carriers.

When the needs of the service require supervisory employees, special clerks, clerks and laborers in first and second class post offices, the act reads, "and carriers in the city delivery service and in the village delivery service, to perform service in excess of four hours on Saturday, they shall be allowed compensatory time within five working days next succeeding the Saturday on which this excess service was performed."

Prepare Schedules

It is provided that employees who are granted compensatory time on Saturday for work performed the previous Saturday or the preceding holiday shall be given the benefits of this act on one day within five working days following the Saturday when that compensatory time was granted. It is further provided that the postmaster general may, if the exigencies of the service require it, authorize the payment of overtime for service in excess of four on the last three Saturdays in the calendar year in lieu of compensatory time.

Although the act does not become effective until July 1, 1931, it is desired in order that there may be no delay or confusion, that postmasters begin at once to prepare schedules and make arrangements for putting it into force. For some years past many postmasters, the Washington

20 PROBATE CASES LISTED FOR HEARING

Twenty probate cases are listed for hearing at a regular term of Outagamie county court at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge Fred V. Heinemann at the courthouse. Cases on the calendar are: hearing on petition for administration in the estates of Rose Anthony, Bertha Munchow and Wilhelmina Sachs; hearing on claims in the estates of Frank Noworatzky, Henry Laudon, Barbara Gelger, Nicholas P. Mischler, Charles Hipp, Charles Balk, Emma Schultz, Katherine Nickel, Vincent A. Klutch, Joseph Young and Gertrude Niehaus; hearing on final account in the estates of Frank J. Schnabel, John Meiers, Charles W. Schultz, Louis Haberman and John Fransway; hearing on trustees report in the estate of George H. Peabody.

bulletin points out, have been able to grant their employees or a portion of them, a shorter work day on Saturday, especially during the summer season, without expense to the department. No doubt many of them will be able to continue to do so, and others may be able to extend similar privileges even before July 1.

Avoid Duplication

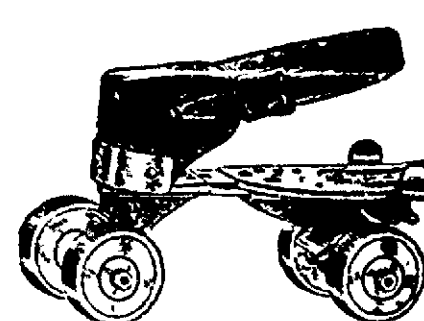

While the act specifically provides for a short work day on Saturday, the bulletin reads, it must not be understood that all employees will be scheduled for a half day on that day, but employees who are necessarily employed more than four hours on that day will be granted compensatory time on one of the five working days following the Saturday on which they were employed, except on the last three Saturdays of the calendar year, when they may be paid overtime in lieu of compensatory time.

"To avoid duplication of compensatory time," the bulletin continues, "when a holiday falls on a Saturday, and will be the case of July 4, 1931, postmasters will see that no employees who are beneficiaries of the act of Feb. 17, 1931, and the preceding act granting compensatory time off to employees for work performed on Sunday and holidays, shall be scheduled for more than four hours' duty on that day."

Boy Scouts Receive Awards At Annual Court Of Honor Ceremony

EAGLE SCOUT BADGES GIVEN TO 6 YOUTHS

Scouting Movement Is Great Boys' Crusade, Says National Councilman

Approximately 1,500 people attended the annual court of honor ceremony and Pageant of Knighthood at Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday afternoon, including about 500 scouts from troops in Appleton and nearby cities, towns and villages.

The program opened at 2:30 in the afternoon with a concert by Appleton high school orchestra under the direction of Jay Williams. The orchestra composed of approximately 25 musicians played a program of classical and popular selections.

The grand entry of valley scouts followed the concert. The entry presented a colorful spectacle as 50 young men, most of them in full dress uniforms, and with the troop and American flags flying, marched down the two center aisles to take seats in the front. The color bearers marched up the steps into the stage where they stood at attention while Cloyd Schroeder, leader of the drum and bugle corps, directed the assembly in pledging allegiance to the flag. The mammoth parade of scouts was headed by the drum and bugle corps.

The chapel was transformed into a panorama of color with flags of other nations hanging from the balcony and the entire stage covered with flags of every color. In the center of the group stood the large number of American flags in a wide variety of sizes.

The program was a combination of a short address of welcome and an explanation of the program was given by F. N. Belanger, council president, after which the drum and bugle corps was presented with medals for attaining a 100 per cent attendance record at rehearsals during the past year. The awards were made by Erik Madisen, secretary of Appleton Lions club, which sponsoring the drum and bugle corps.

Troop rating banners were awarded to Troops 4 and 9 of American Legion, Appleton, and Menasha wood-ware Co., Menasha, respectively. The awards were made to Ted Frank, scoutmaster of Troop 4, and to John Mac Andrews, scoutmaster of Troops 9. The banners were awarded on the basis of troop growth, development, advancement, attendance and other factors which tend to make a troop stand out in the organization.

Arthur Bohr, Troop 26, Marion entertained with two classical piano selections. The youngsters, who made his debut in council circles in the recent radio broadcast over station WHEEY, St. Norbert college station at W. De Pere during assembly were given a special award.

Following the presentation of these awards the Troop 11 quartet, composed of Harold Hartzheim, Marvin Greene, Edward Jensen and Gordon Henle sang several selections, accompanied on the piano by Arthur Bohr.

One of the most impressive features of the program followed with the awarding of Eagle scout badges to Allen Warner, Troop 6; James Van Roy, Troop 6; Harold Hartzheim, Troop 11; Orris Schmalz, Troop 20; Le Roy Hughes, Troop 21; and Rodney Dodge. The parents of the scouts were called to the rostrum and the badges were pinned to the youngsters uniforms by their mothers.

Menasha Scout Honored
Lyle Edholm, Troop 3, Menasha was presented with his Gold Eagle badge for earning 31 merit badges over the Eagle scout rank and continued leadership in his troop.

Following the presentation of Edholm's award the parents of scouts who received their Eagle awards earlier in the year were called to the platform where they were awarded the honorary scout pin. The pins were presented by the Eagle scouts. Following are the other Eagle scouts: Edmund Webster, Troop 4; Wilbur and Warner Nelson, Troop 4; Robert O'Neill, Troop 6; Stansbury Young, Troop 8; and Stanley Fox, Troop 21.

The principal address of the afternoon was given by Dr. W. E. Bannan, La Crosse, national council member and director of the Region Seven executive board. The address reviewed the recognition of 73 Lawrence college students who were former boy scouts.

Dr. Bannan addressed the group on "The Eagle Scout and His Loyalty," declaring that a boy who has attained the Eagle scout rank has the equivalent of a college education, and that each step leading to the attainment of the Eagle rank is the equivalent of a college degree.

Following the address of Dr. Bannan, the speaker scored those people who are trying to belittle the ideals of the scouting movement and those who are "all stars."

One of the eleven men on the American football team last fall who were "all stars," the ideals of scouting are accomplishing very much.

Dr. Bannan also pointed out that the scouts are the students at West Wisconsin academy are forerunners of the future.

TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE FOR CONCERT TUESDAY

Best Seats for Recital by Claire Dux Are Going Rapidly

Tickets for the performance by Claire Dux, famous soprano, who will sing at Memorial chapel tomorrow night, are still available at Bellington drug store, though the best seats in the house are going rapidly. The Dux program marks the last of the Community Artists series for the winter.

Dux is acclaimed as one of the three finest sopranos known to this country. She was a favorite with the Chicago Civic opera for several years before marrying Charles H. Swift, when she retired from active participation in concert work. However, she emerged on several gala occasions during her period of retirement, appearing as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Jan. 21, 1929.

This year Mme. Dux has devoted six weeks to appearing the public that has been clamoring for her return. Inasmuch as half of this time was spent on the Pacific coast, Appleton is fortunate in looking the great singer for an appearance here.

Few artists have succeeded in impressing the American public from so many points of view as did Claire Dux, who established herself here as well as abroad as one of the great international personages in the operatic and concert field.

BODMER INQUEST UNDER WAY TODAY

Coroner Hears Story of Fatal Injuring of Man Several Weeks Ago

The inquest into the death of Anthony Bodmer, 51, 220 E. Atlantic, who died last week of a fractured skull received in a fall in the rear of his home several weeks ago, was being held this afternoon at the city hall. Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, coroner, and Stanley A. Stalld, district attorney, were conducting the inquest.

Bodmer was injured, according to police, during an argument. Marvin Ellis, 812 E. Atlantic, a son-in-law of Mrs. Bodmer, and two Greenleaf men, William Farrington and Ed Nienhaus, were present. According to the story told to police, Farrington and Bodmer were arguing. When Ellis tried to stop it, Bodmer slipped on the ice and fell to the ground, fracturing his skull.

PETITIONS EXPECTED ON PAVING PROGRAM

The council meeting Wednesday night runs a reasonably good chance of traveling along the quiet orderly path of routine business. On the other hand, several petitions are on the horizon which may throw the meeting into several long-winded arguments.

Petitions for and against the paving of South River-st. and the resurfacing of S. Oneda-st., may be signed in time for presentation to the council Wednesday night. The junk ordinance is due for another party, and it is rumored the ordinance transferring parts of Wisconsin-ave. into the local business district may come before the city fathers.

COMMITTEE MEETS

The county board buildings and grounds committee will meet Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Several minor repairs for various offices will be considered.

scouts, and that many regular army officers were formerly affiliated with the national movement. He also stated that 68 per cent of the Rhodes scholarships were awarded to boy scouts.

"Scouting is the greatest boys' crusade the world has ever known, and it is the greatest thing going on in support," the speaker said.

The first part of the Pageant of Knighthood followed Dr. Bannan's address. The pageant was presented in tableaux depicting the periods of ancient and modern times which produced the ideals now incorporated in the boy scout oath and law. It was presented by scouts of Troop 17, with the assistance of Appleton youngsters.

Dressed in Costume

The youngsters were garbed in the costumes of the early crusaders, knights in armor, Japanese feudal knights, American pioneers, American Indians, and others.

During the intermission between the two parts of the pageant, banners and certificates were awarded to Troops 12 to 26 by Mr. Younger and Mr. Killgren.

The second part of the pageant presented another colorful spectacle. Flags of 42 nations carried by knights of old and the modern knights of scoutland, appeared in impressive review, after which the American banner was brought in review to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner."

NOTICE MUST BE FILED TO GAIN TAX EXTENSION

Affidavits Should Be Signed and Sent to Treasurer Before March 15

Printed affidavits of inability to pay taxes at the present time, which can be obtained now in the office of F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, must be filed before March 15, if the signer wishes to avoid the 2 per cent penalty usually collected after March 1.

The law extending the tax time on real estate to June 1 for those who cannot pay now was unanimously adopted by the common council at a special meeting Friday evening. The bill, signed by the governor, Friday, and adopted by many cities in Wisconsin immediately after, is an emergency measure for the depression period only. It seeks to relieve the tax burden of the unemployed as well as of the business men whose sales have been slow because of the depression period.

Salient features of the law are: Taxpayers must file with the city treasurer on or before March 15 affidavits showing that they are unable to pay their taxes. The city treasurer will then grant the extension without penalty.

The affidavits, which include a description of the property concerned, must be sworn to before a notary public.

All taxes which have not been paid prior to March 25, when the treasurer is required to settle with the county, shall be returned delinquent, and unless paid, before the fourth Monday in April the lands will be advertised for sale and sold at the same time and in the same manner and treated in all respects as other delinquent taxes, except that the owners of such lands, who have filed the affidavits, shall be entitled to pay their taxes without penalty, interest, or other charges, except the fee for advertising the sale, at any time before June 1.

If taxes of those who were granted an extension have not been paid on June 1, they shall be enforced by tax sale and shall be subject to the same interest, penalties and charges as other delinquent taxes.

YANKEE PRISONERS TROUBLESOME LOT

U. S. Troops Captured by Germans During War Always Escaping

American prisoners of war in Germany caused their guards no end of trouble because they always were trying to escape. Judge Crowns, Kewanee, told reserve army officers from Green Bay, Appleton and Manitowish chapters at a dinner and joint meeting at Green Bay Saturday night.

Judge Crowns, an artillery lieutenant during the war, was captured by Germans when French units of both sides of the American line gave way. He and an aviation lieutenant succeeded in escaping from one German prison. After traveling nine nights and nine days they were recaptured just as they arrived near the Swiss border.

Taken back to another prison, they were held until the war ended, another plan to escape going wrong when boards on which they were escaping from a window to a fence broke.

The dinner and meeting was arranged by Major C. P. Evers, reserve instructor at Green Bay, and the Green Bay chapter of the Reserve Officers' association.

Appleton officers attending were Maj. Fred W. Hoffman, Capt. A. P. Lagorio, Capt. Clyde P. Schroeder, Lieut. V. A. Spearbreaker, Lieut. T. E. Kistritz, Lieut. Raymond P. Dohr, Orville Muenster, and Lieut. Gordon R. McIntyre.

SUPREME COURT TO PASS ON OIL POLICY

Will Hand Down Decision on Hoover's Oil Conservation Stand

Washington — (P)—The supreme court met briefly today, but made huge inroads upon the accumulation of cases awaiting its decision whether they would be reviewed.

It consented to pass upon the validity of President Hoover's oil conservation policy. The case was brought to the court in an appeal challenging the validity of an order by Secretary Wilbur closing the public domain to oil and gas prospectors.

The court also agreed to review a lower court order releasing Thomas W. Cunningham, Philadelphia sheriff, from arrest. He is wanted for trial in the District of Columbia courts on charges arising from his refusal to tell a senate investigating committee the sources of $50,000 he contributed to the 1926 campaign chest of William S. Vare.

The court declined to review a number of cases, leaving undisturbed the decisions of the highest court previous to pass upon them. These included:

By the O. H. Ingram company of Wisconsin seeking to recover from the state approximately $35,000 in income taxes.

By Marion E. Yelland of White Pine-co, Nevada, seeking to hold the Bankers' Reserve Life company, of Des Moines, responsible for a $20,400 insurance policy on the life of Louis A. Yelland.

CLAIMS HE DIDN'T DRIVE WHILE DRUNK

Kimberly Man Arrested; Two Companions Pay Fines for Drunkenness

Arthur Jackson, Kimberly, pleaded not guilty when he appeared in municipal court before Judge Theodor Berg this morning on a charge of drunken driving. Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday, and he furnished bonds of $100.

With Jackson when he was arrested were Matt Kline, route 3, Appleton, and John Williams, route 3, Appleton. These men, charged with drunkenness, pleaded guilty in court this morning and paid fines of $10 and costs each.

Jackson was arrested about 11:50 Sunday night by Lester Van Roy, motorcycle officer, on W. College-ave. Officer Van Roy said Jackson was driving in a wild and erratic manner, passing cars on either the right or left side, and endangering the lives of all the motorists on the street.

In court this morning Jackson told the judge he had two witnesses who would prove he wasn't drunk. He said these witnesses were Kline and Williams.

FEW VETERANS AFTER LOANS IN APPLETON

A. C. Bosser, August A. Arens, John E. Hantschel Help File Applications

Approximately only 20 ex-service men Monday, had applied for loans on adjusted service certificates under provisions of the bill passed over President Hoover's veto last week, according to Alfred C. Bosser, "Service officer of Oney Johnston post of the American legion.

Several other legion officers besides Mr. Bosser are ready to make out the applications. Among them are August A. Arens and John E. Hantschel. County legionnaires can make out applications by applying to their post officers.

As far as Appleton is concerned, there has been no rush for loans, Mr. Bosser said, and he said that his office will easily handle applications without extra help.

Many Need Money

Of the men who have applied for loans so far, most of them previously secured loans which would indicate they really need the money. Only three or four of them who had made application up to Monday had not previously asked for loans. There are about 900 men in the city eligible to secure loans, and about 1,400 more in the county.

There is no "red tape" in securing the loans, according to Mr. Bosser. Veterans who already have secured loans only must present the pink slip received by the borrower on the first application. This is a receipt for the certificate. The application is then filled out and forwarded to Milwaukee. The check will be received as soon as the Milwaukee office of the bureau can handle it.

Attest Prove Identity

Veterans who never have received loans on their certificates have only to prove identification which is a mere matter of form when the ex-service man is known personally by the man filling out the form.

Under old provisions of the loan, veterans could borrow 25 per cent of the face value. Under the new provisions they can borrow 50 per cent of the face value. Interest is at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent annually. If interest is not paid it is charged and compounded annually and by expiration of the certificates in 1945 will all most equal the principal.

The maximum that can be loaned on the security of an adjusted service certificate may be ascertained by multiplying the face value of the certificate, which appears in the second line thereof, by the figure representing the proper loan basis per dollar found by reference to the table of loan values which appears on the face of the certificate.

For instance, John Doe has a certificate for $1,500 dated Jan. 1, 1925, at the age of 35 years; on April 1, 1931, he desires to obtain the maximum loan on the security of his certificate; six years and three months have elapsed since the issuance of the certificate, the loan value per dollar is noted on a reference table based on the six years elapsed. The certificate therefore would bring the loan value per dollar based on the six years.

OFFER PRE-VIEW OF "CIMARRON"

Story Is of Wild, Untrammelled Days When Oklahoma Was Settled

In a human tapestry of the wild, untrammelled days of the settling of the Oklahoma country, through the struggle of the building of an American state, the motion picture of Miss Edna Ferber's historic novel, "Cimarron," was presented this morning in an invitational preview showing at the Fox theatre.

The story is that of the pioneer who has lived to see the realization of his dreams. It opens with the restless waiting of adventurers to leap across the border line into the newly opened Indian territory; it is the story of thousands of eager men and women eager to find a new home in the Cimarron country. The spirit of the day is reflected in the character of Tancey Cravat, played by Richard Dix, who as a fearless lawyer and newspaper editor, sets out with his family to establish himself in the frontier country. The character of the pioneer woman upon whom was the responsibility of building a settlement once begun, when their husbands left them for new territories, is given in the role of Sabra Cravat, played by Irene Dunne, a newcomer to the screen. This colorful life of frontier days is carried to modern times and a well-established city in place of the crowded, raucous town of frontier life, is presented as a finished epoch in history.

The movie will be shown at the Fox theatre beginning Monday, March 9, for five days. Supporting the leading roles are Estelle Taylor, George Stone, Edna May Oliver, Stanley Fields, Roscoe Ates and William Collier, Jr.

Mrs. B. J. Rohan, who has been confined to St. Elizabeth hospital for several weeks, was sufficiently recovered to return to her home, 311 W. Spring-st., Saturday.

COLD WAVE HERALDS ARRIVAL OF MARCH

Relief from Moderate Frigid Blast Due to Arrive Tonight

March came in Sunday as a "lamb-like lion" or a "lion-like lamb."

Despite the fact that the mercury explored the regions around the 15 degree above mark early Sunday morning, skies were clear and a cool breeze carried a small amount of snow disappeared before the hot rays of the sun later in the day.

A moderate cold wave which sent the mercury far below the freezing point held most of the middleweek in its grip over the weekend. The lowest temperatures in several weeks were recorded, according to reports.

Relief from the frigid blast which also kept people in Appleton and vicinity shivering Sunday is due to arrive Monday night or Tuesday, according to predictions of the weatherman.

Skies will be cloudy tonight and Tuesday and the mercury is due for a rise, he says. Winds are shifting in the west and southwest, a good indication that warmer weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Monday morning the mercury registered 15 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 35 degrees.

Light snow has been predicted in the upper lake regions for the next 24 hours.

Equipment for checking loads was provided the officers last year. Mr. Appleton said that signs, warning truckers of the local limits, had been placed on all important highways in the county. The limits in effect in Outagamie-co. also are being placed in effect throughout the state.

CROWD WAITING FOR KIRKLAND TO TAKE STAND AS WITNESS

State Expects to Close Case Today in Murder of Arlene Draves

Valparaiso, Ind. — (P)—Prospects of Virgil Kirkland taking the stand today packed the Porter-co. court room, jammed the corridors and lower halls with a crowd, eager to hear of his relationship with Arlene Draves of Gary. Kirkland is on trial, charged with the murder and attack upon the 18-year-old girl. Four other Gary youths also are charged with the crime.

The state intended to close its case today and the defense indicated it then would give the drowsy little girl a full opportunity to tell of his professed love for the pretty "Babe" as Emerson high school intimates called Miss Draves.

A delay in procedure, occasioned by the enforced absence of Dr. G. H. Stoner of Valparaiso, attending a farm woman at child birth, threatened to disappoint the thrill seeking spectators.

Dr. Stoner was to answer the hypothetical question to which Dr. James E. Burcham, coroner's physician replied, declaring brain hemorrhage and assault caused the girl's death during a liquor party at a Gary home last November.

Before closing the state will present Elsie Draves, sister of Arlene, to testify as to the clothing she wore the night of her death with the athletic and good looking Virgil.

Explain Germination Of Garden Seeds, Bulbs

One of the mysteries of nature never satisfactorily explained is why seeds show such a wide divergence in the time they require to germinate. Some will come up within a week, some in ten days, some in two weeks, while others may require weeks, months and even a year or more to germinate.

The seed is an embryo plant surrounded with food material sufficient to start it on its way, the whole protected by a coating of varying hardness and thickness.

Plans of some botanical families germinate quickly. Other families are noted for being slow about germinating. In the vegetable garden the members of the botanical family known as the cruciferae or cross bearers, because of their arrangement of four petals in cross formation, are the speedy germinators. The radish belongs to this family and it is the quickest vegetable to come up. Other relatives are the turnip and cabbage, which also germinate freely and promptly.

The slow coaches in the vegetable garden are the members of the umbelliferae or umbrella carriers, so named from the umbrella-shaped arrangement of the flower cluster. These include the parsnip, carrot, and parsley. Peas and beans come up with reasonable promptness. We expect corn in about two weeks. We know that parsley will take about three weeks.

A knowledge of the time of germination will save considerable worry about the garden, as there should be no worry because parsnips don't come up as quickly as radishes. The main factor aside from the natural time of germination to be considered is that of moisture. A maintained condition of moisture will produce quicker germination than dry conditions. If the soil is dry when the seed is planted and remains so, germination will be delayed until proper moisture is present.

If the soil is not moist, it should be gently watered after seeds are in the ground, using a fine spray so that seed will not be washed out of its rows. Expect radishes first, then beets, lettuce and the others over a period of three weeks, the parsley, parsnips and carrots being the last to appear. Don't expect all the seed to come up at once. It isn't its nature to do so.

IMMIGRATION LEGISLATION

The large number of unemployed in this country is focusing the attention of the national government on the problems of immigration.

At the present time there are two bills pending before Congress having to do with the restriction of immigration. Senator Reed of Pennsylvania has offered a bill in the senate proposing that all quota immigration be suspended for a period of two years, or until July 1, 1933. Also on February 18 the House Immigration committee approved the Jenkins bill to reduce quota entrants from European countries by 90 per cent and limit Western Hemisphere migration to 10 per cent of the entrants in the fiscal year 1929. This bill has the approval of the state department.

The percentage of immigrants coming into this country at this time is small compared to the number of unemployed, but it is fitting that the government should take some definite and immediate action to stop the admittance of any foreigners who are likely to become public charges, or who, by obtaining a job, will replace someone else who is working.

Strange as it may seem there is well defined opposition to any restriction on immigration. This opposition is represented by those who work in this country, but who still have a feeling of loyalty and patriotism towards the land which starved or persecuted them rather than for the one which gave them political equality and economic independence. There is the antagonism of those who desire the right to get rich on cheap alien labor without any thought as to its effect on this country or its institutions. And then there is opposition from those both in local politics and in congress who are ready to champion vote-getting causes—to build up populations to increase representations in local legislatures, or the national House of Representatives.

The excellence of the present immigration law which established the quota system has been proved beyond all doubt. The trouble is that the remedy has been given us in too small doses and the prescription should be increased. The need for imported population in this country has disappeared as we shall find from now on have difficulty in taking care of our own natural increase and still maintain high standards of living.

It is high time congress took drastic action towards the still further reduction of quota immigration and to put upon a quota basis the countries of this hemisphere which are now exempt from its operation. It gives unlimited time to the discussion of tariff questions which involve only dollars and cents, but is prone to forget the immigration problems which involve, not only dollars and cents, but racial strains and the very blood stream of the nation. Definite and favorable action on pending legislation prior to its adjournment on March 4, will be a patriotic service to the country.

THE UNENVIABLE RECORD

We have had ten bank robberies in Wisconsin so far this year. It is a black record.

Putting aside every vestige of bouquets and speaking but the hard facts, it would be difficult to find a better state in this country or elsewhere than Wisconsin, or a fairer, truer or more dependable people. Our courts function honestly and with reasonable dispatch. Our juries are much too sensible and experienced to be overcome by a sentiment of a maudlin nature or deceived by false alibis or framed defenses. Public corruption is at a minimum in this state. Paroling or pardoning public enemies has not been in vogue, at least for some years. Yet we have had more bank robberies in proportion to population than nearly every other state in the union.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SOME REAL MAGIC IN MODERN MEDICINE.
When the arsenic compound, salvarsan, was first introduced as a remedy for syphilis the ever credulous profession was intrigued, and I mean intrigued, by a phrase, "sterilizing magna," which signified the absolute destruction of all the germs of the disease in the body by one injection of the wonderful medicine. Today, alas, no longer used, superceded by "improved" or "modified" remedies of similar character, all, curiously enough, made in the country and marked by the people who invented the beautiful phrase.

Sill, we do see some magic in modern medicine. The best magic seldom or never gets into the papers. I have persuaded several thousands of readers to select the modern method of tonsil removal instead of the old-fashioned method. I have received reports from several hundreds of these readers, at some period following the dithyrambic extirpation of their tonsils. Not all of them have been favorable; a few of them have bitterly condemned the method, the surgeon who used it, and me for having suggested it. On the whole, I believe there is no other procedure or method or remedy in the realm of medicine or surgery that is more satisfactory when applied by the properly skilled physician.

In a considerable number of these reports from patients who have had the dithyrambic treatment, and so avoided an operation, I find a striking observation, to the effect that the general condition of the system is trouble caused by the infected tonsils began to improve, or even completely disappeared or cleared up after the first sitting or treatment.

The old stagers in the nose and throat field still do a great deal of labored arguing about the importance of removing every bit of tonsil tissue and leaving no tags or submerged fragments in the throat. This fine in theory, of course in practice the best of the throat surgeons is quite likely to overlook and leave behind portions of tonsil tissue, no matter what method or care he employs. But the talk is brave, kind of a favorite indoor sport of the throat specialists of the old order when they get together to deplore the newfangled method.

A reasonable knowledge of pathology and bacteriology, and a modicum of good common sense, together with a fair experience, fully warrants the inference, I think, that if you can remove, destroy or sterilize (kill the germs in the infected area, the septic focus, in the tonsil, you have accomplished all that medicine can accomplish for the patient's health, and it doesn't matter at all, whether you leave any tonsil tissue in the throat or not.

So I conclude that a mere sitting or two may be quite all that is necessary to cure focal infection in some cases of infected tonsils treated with dithyrambic. Even if the remaining portion of tonsil subsequently becomes infected—what of it? The patient can report to the doctor for another dithyrambic treatment.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

HEY! Quit it! Clowdy loud-ly cried. "I wonder how I will get dried. The elephant can sure, aim right. He soaked me through and through. Perhaps, with him, that's simply play, but I think I'll be on my way. I only wish that he would soak one of the rest of us."

Said Scouty, "Well, sir, as for me, I'll be as scarce as I can be. I fear the husky elephant its full of tricks like that." The elephant raised his trunk up high and, as we Scouty scampered by, he snorted with his limber trunk and off went Scouty's hat.

The Travel Man then said, "Well, we will find some other rights to see. This zoo is full of animals. Come on, we'll see them all. But, lest you want some sudden scares, stay far away from all the bears." And then they stopped and listened to a squeaky sort of call.

"What's that?" asked Carpy. "Let's go see!" It sounded funny as could be. "Why that came from the monkey cage!" The Travel Man replied. "We'll visit there before we've through, but there are other things to do." He turned into a lane, with all the Tynmites by his side.

"Oh, look!" cried Carpy. "Me, oh my! That thing's head's way up near the sky. I like giraffes. Let's call on him and see what he will do."

"All right," snapped Scouty. I am game." They found the big giraffe was tame. Then Clowdy shouted, "Watch me, lads. I'll show you something new."

He walked up to the big giraffe and all the bunch began to laugh. Then Clowdy cried, "I'll try a stunt. I may wind up a wreck." He promptly proved he had the knack of getting on the slim beast's back and then amid the cheers of all, he climbed right up its neck.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Antikind Sanitary Regulations.
I believe I commented some time ago on the peculiar requirements of the sanitary authorities about vents for bathroom installations. I am encountering difficulties in the building of a home. What is the reason for such vents? Are they essential for safety or for health? (G. E. K.)

Answer.—No. The old timers imagined "sewer gas" was somehow injurious to health. Present health board or sanitary ordinances or regulations are based on ancient theories or fancies. A vent may be desirable for more efficient functioning of the drain of sink, lavatory, toilet bowl or bath tub, but it is not a health or sanitary question at all. It is just plain official graft. I should say, to compel a home builder to install an additional vent for an additional bath where there is already a vent for the toilet bowl. The grafters can't defend this regulation or ordinance on the ground that it is a sanitary requirement, even if it is a sanitary requirement.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MADDOX
New York—Rumors of big doings and reporters scurrying to telephones for an immediate check of reliable sources.

Most city rooms on the metropolitan daily are crowded with reporters of sources close to prominent. They even have the private, unlisted telephone numbers of some notables, provided by the personages, for use in case of emergency.

Often, of course, the rumors are false. A short while ago, for instance, there was an unverified report that Charles M. Schwab and other giants of industry were conferring on the proposed steel merger. On the heels of this came a quick rumor that Mr. Schwab had been shot.

A reporter called a secretary of Mr. Schwab's over a private line. "I presume," he said, "that Mr. Schwab is in conference now."

"Mr. Schwab," the secretary corrected, "has gone out to see a motion picture."

COUNTY TO GET 2 SMALL STATE JOBS THIS YEAR

Total of 214 Miles of New Roads to Be Constructed in District

Only two small highway improvement projects are listed for Outagamie county in a report of 1931 activities from the state divisional highway office No. 3 at Green Bay. These two small jobs are state projects. They are the construction of one mile of gravel road on Highway 76 from Shiocton to Bear Creek and the building of 1.7 miles of concrete pavement on Highway 65 from the south county line to utahna.

The road construction projects are planned for Brown county during the coming summer, including nearly 25 miles of concrete surfacing. In the entire division, construction of 106 miles of concrete, 88 miles of black top, 30 miles of gravel, and eight miles of grading is contemplated in ten counties. Twelve miles of the contemplated gravel surfacing is on highways in the Menominee Indian reservation.

Construction of concrete road the entire distance from Green Bay to Sturgeon Bay, filling in the gaps now existing in Brown, Kewaunee, and Door counties, and of 24 miles of black top surfacing from Institute to Sister Bay, on the Door county peninsula, are two of the largest projects, except for the laying of slightly more than 40 miles of black top in Marinette county, from Crivitz to Niagara, on Highway 141.

About eight miles of concrete will be laid on Highway 78, from Bay Settlement to Dyckesville, in Brown county. Concrete, about three miles of concrete will be laid on Highway 78, and in Door county about 16 miles, on the same highway, filling in the gap from the south county line to Sturgeon Bay. These three projects will complete concrete paving from here to Sturgeon Bay, while the 24 miles of black top will make a hard-surface road through to Sister Bay.

Other projects listed for Brown county are widening of Highway 41 from here to Dyckesville, laying of 7.5 miles of concrete, about three miles on Highway 54, and of six miles on "Country Trunk 'H'." This trunk line has not been definitely located. There will also be widening of grading on Highway 10, from the south county line to Foser, g. c. o. two projects are Wickman, with a total of six miles, and Gravel, State Trunk 57, from the north county line to the south county line. These projects will be completed by the end of the year.

Gravel projects are listed as: West county line to Highway 54, 9.1 miles; Highway 163, Luxemburg connection, 1.5 miles; Dyckesville-north county line, Highway 78, 2.9 miles. All of these are concrete.

40 Miles of Black Top Mantowoc-co listings are: Highway 10 and Highway 141, four corners-Mantowoc, concrete, three miles; same highways, Rosemere road-Mantowoc, concrete, 1.5 miles; Highway 32, Kishwaukee county line, 4.2 miles concrete; county trunk "A," St. Nazianz-Kiel, 3.3 miles concrete.

In Marinette county, projects listed are: Highway 64, Marinette-Pound, 1.5 miles concrete; Highway 141, Crivitz-Niagara, 40.5 miles, black top; Highway 8, Goodman-Dunbar, 7.7 miles gravel.

Only one project is listed for Oconto county, 3.1 miles of gravel on Highway 32, from Gillett to the south county line.

In Shawano county about 13 miles of concrete surfacing is contemplated, the bulk of it, 12.7 miles, on Highway 29, Shawano to Tilleda. The Thornton overhead, on 29, represents .03 miles, and the Wittung overhead, on the same highway, .03 miles. Six and one-half miles of gravel surfacing is also planned on Highway 26, Marion to Split Rock. Some in Neopit.

Winnebago county projects include 11.3 miles of concrete surfacing. The projects are: Highway 125, city of Neenah, 1.2 miles; Highway 41, Gratiot bridge and approaches, .02 miles; county trunk "T," Omro-Lake Poygan, five miles; county trunk "T," Oshkosh-Winchester, five miles; Highway 110, Oshkosh-Butte des Morts, .04 miles.

Both of the projects in the Menominee Indian reservation are on

USE SNOWMOBILE IN COMMERCIAL FISHING BUSINESS

Escanaba, Mich. (AP)—Capt. Peter Jacobson "has been around all kinds of boats," but his snowmobile, capable of 35 miles an hour, "is a lot different from any of them," he said today.

Running alike on snow-covered land or ice, the propeller-driven craft is used in the commercial fishing work of the captain and his men. It is constructed from parts of an old car, a navy airplane engine and runner-skis of sheet iron.

Capt. Jacobson set his nets this year at the east side of Big Bay de Noc, having abandoned fishing on Little Bay because of the increasing number of fishermen there. A car first served as transportation, but the snow and slush later precluded its use.

The snowmobile is 18 feet long. The motor and propeller are mounted at the back for pushing power. There is room for one passenger beside the driver. A large box back of the driver's seat carries fish and equipment.

Slow freezing of the bays this year made bumpy ice, so the snowmobile has not been put to top speed, but Capt. Jacobson makes his 35 mile trip in 35 minutes easily. Time has been saved by cutting across the end of the Sturgeon peninsula, for the snowmobile runs as well on snow-covered country roads as it does on ice.

LEGION CONSIDERS POPPY SALE PLANS

Post Also Will Discuss Memorial Day Arrangements Monday Night

Sales of poppies on the Saturday before Memorial day and plans for Memorial services honoring soldier and sailor dead, will be discussed by Oney Johnston post Monday evening at the Elks' club.

Because speakers must be procured early for Memorial day exercises, the legion will discuss the program. Practically all the Civil war veterans have died, and observance of Memorial day now must be directed by veterans of the Spanish-American war and the World war.

Appleton post again will make an effort to sell poppies this year. The sale of poppies, with proceeds going to service work of various posts and to the disabled veterans who make the poppies, has become an institution with most posts, and is one project all attempt to carry out successfully.

Highway 47, one of them for 12.3 miles of black top from Neopit to Phlox, and the other for 12 miles of gravel from Keshena-Neopit.

In Florence and Forest counties, not within the jurisdiction of the local division office, only grading and gravel surfacing work is contemplated, according to state reports. Grading and draining of three miles of road from Long Lake to Tipier, in Florence county, is planned, as is gravel surfacing of two miles of road from Pine River to Keyes Lake. In Forest county, projects are gravel surfacing of four miles of road from Rhineland to Laona, and grading of 500 feet from Gayour to Nevada.

Wrestling Champ to Wed Beauty

Following the move of Gene Tunney, whose name was removed from boxing records and placed in social registers as the result of his marriage, Gus Sonnenberg, the wrestling champion, will become a member of select New England society when he weds Miss Marie Dorothy Elliot, of Belmont, Mass., in the near future. Sonnenberg's grappling campaign has netted him the championship and close to a million dollars since he left Dartmouth. The two are shown above.

Reds Bar Finn Janitor For His Antagonism To Negroes

New York (AP)—Expelled from the Communist party for "white chauvinism" in the treatment of Negroes, August Yokinen, Finnish janitor, trod the weary road to redemption today.

In the first mass trial staged by Communists in America, Yokinen, who speaks and understands but little English, was convicted yesterday by a jury in spite of an impassioned plea by his Negro counsel. The jury was composed of seven Negroes and seven white persons, including three women. The scene was a dance hall in the heart of Harlem with 2,000 members of both races in attendance.

Yokinen's trial was based on charges that he discriminated against three Negroes at the Finnish Workers club hall some weeks ago—"falling to jump at the throats of those who would eject the Negro comrades." "White chauvinism," it was explained, is the violation of complete political, economic and social equality of Negroes and whites.

"Comrade Yokinen made formal acceptance of the Communist principle of equal rights," prosecutor Clarence A. Hathaway said, "but he was not willing to accept its substance. Do you suppose it is possible for our party to convince the Negroes that we will fight for them if we show them we are not ready to bathe with them?"

Admitting that his client was guilty of a "grave crime," Richard B. Moore, Communist candidate

WOODMEN WIN IN RISK CASE IN U. S. COURT

Supreme Court Holds It Has No Jurisdiction Over Matter

BY ROLLIN M. CLARK
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press

Washington (CFA)—Officers of fraternal societies which now insure the lives of more than 9,000,000 members to the extent of ten billion dollars are breathing easier today as a result of the announcement by Chief Justice Hughes that the supreme court of the United States has no jurisdiction over the Modern Woodmen of America rate case.

This organization, the largest fraternal benefit society in the country, with about 15 per cent of the total fraternal insurance in force, would have faced ultimate ruin, according to its officials, if the supreme court had assumed jurisdiction and reversed the decision of the Illinois supreme court upholding a change in rating plan adopted by the head camp of the order in 1922.

The change in rating method was made because of a steady increase in the mortality rate of the membership. From 1922 to 1929, for example, the death rate had jumped from 10.53 per 1,000 members to 14.96.

Level rates that had been more than adequate during the early years of the society, operated on a pay-as-you-go basis, had been found insufficient as the members grew older and died in greater numbers. It was a case of changing over to some kind of legal reserve, or other adequate plan for all those insured, or giving up the ship. The officers chose the former alternative, resulting in this litigation instituted by certain of the older members. They protested because the new plan would either increase their rates or diminish the amount of their insurance protection.

The experience of the Modern Woodmen is typical of fraternal benefit associations generally throughout the country. Most of them have been confronted with an increasing average age of membership and higher mortality ratios because there has been little infusion of new blood. The need for younger men to offset the older group's unfavorable experience was recognized but the present generation could not be attracted to join the societies in any great numbers. Consequently one by one there was a change over to some adequate or partially adequate rating plan in order to assure sufficient funds to meet all claims as they fell due.

Abandon Department. At least one leading fraternal organization, the Knights of Pythias, followed the plan adopted by a number of former assessment associations in organizing old-line legal reserve companies. Backed by congressional sanction, necessitated because the order had been chartered by a special act of congress, the Knights of Pythias recently abandoned its insurance department and placed its business in a legal reserve company which it organized not only to insure the lives of members but outsiders as well. The insurance problems of the society are considered solved.

A number of fraternal societies are now writing juvenile insurance where permitted to do so by state law. That this privilege may be extended is indicated by the fact that bills are now pending before a number of the state legislatures to permit such insurance on the lives of children.

CONTRADICT DEFENSE TESTIMONY IN MURDER

Indianapolis (AP)—The state prepared today to introduce evidence intended to contradict the defense version of the torch slaying of an unidentified man here last May 21, for which Harold Herbert Schroeder, Mobile, Ala., is on trial.

Plans were announced to call as a witness Dr. Lawrence A. Lewis, former deputy coroner who, after an autopsy, reported the man found dead in Schroeder's burning automobile had been stabbed or shot in the lung. A hemorrhage resulting from the wound caused death, Dr. Lewis stated in the autopsy report.

Schroeder, after his arrest at Mobile, explained to officers that a hitch-hiker riding with him was killed when his automobile left the highway, and fearing he would be accused of murder, he poured oil over the body and set it afire.

A report on the defendant's mental condition will be made by two physicians appointed by the court, who examined Schroeder during the week-end at the psychopathic ward of city hospital.

GERM-CARRYING PLANES

Baltimore—Surgeon General H. S. Cumming, of the U. S. He suggested that strict inspection and sterilization of planes be enforced at all airports.

700 CITIES ARE SERVED BY PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Holding Firm Controlled by Stone and Webster Incorporated

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Consolidated Press

(Editor's Note: This is the forty-third article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—Controlled by Stone and Webster Incorporated through ownership of over 80 per cent of the common stock, Engineers Public Service is a holding company, the subsidiaries of which serve nearly 700 communities in twelve states. The holding company has no funded debt of its own, but subsidiaries have outstanding bonds to the amount of more than $141,000,000 and preferred stock in the sum of over $72,000,000, these figures being as of December 31st last.

There are three series of no par value preferred stocks, one paying $5, one paying $5.50 and one paying $6 annually. The two first named are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and sell to yield about 5.75 for the $5 and about 6.25 per cent for the $5.50 issue. The $6 preferred was only recently offered by the bankers at a price to yield 6 per cent.

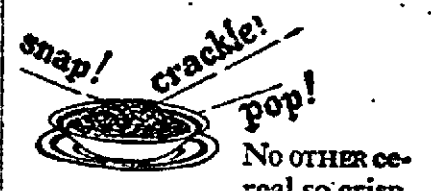

Of these issues the most interesting is the $5 preferred which has a conversion feature. The present conversion rate is fifteen shares of common for each ten shares of $5 preferred. At recent market prices there was no object in exercising the privilege. The potential value of the conversion right, however, appears in the lower yield basis at the market for the $5 preferred compared with the two other preferred issues.

Dividend rate on the common is now $2.40 a share to which rate it was raised last May. Prior to that time the common had been paying $1 a share in cash and 4 per cent in stock annually. The company went through the year 1930 with a creditable showing. Net was equivalent to $16.21 a share on the combined preferreds against $17.55 a share in the preceding year, and $2.02 a share on the common against $3.38 a share in 1929, these figures being based on the amounts outstanding in their respective years. Among the important subsidiaries are Virginia Electric and Power Company, Eastern Texas Electric and Puget Sound Power and Light.

An Alberta, Canada, organization, headed by New York interests, proposes to pipe natural gas from Kinross, Alberta, 350 miles to Regina, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. Panneck, D.C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I have been reading your column in the Post-Crescent. I am not well. I am thirty-five years of age and have been sick for three years. My family doctor diagnosed my case as ulcers of the stomach; another specialist pronounced my case dyspepsia and another called it acute indigestion. I am constantly doctoring, however, I am no better in health. What is your opinion of my case? Please answer. — Mrs. F. J. S.

ANSWER: Your brain is your power house. From it is supplied the vital energy that is necessary to produce proper function in the heart, stomach, kidneys, etc. The nerves are cables which convey this energy and any pressure upon them decreases their capacity and results in diseases of the organs supplied.

Chiropractic does not depend for its success upon a diagnosis of the case. Our fundamental does not concern itself with whether the patient is suffering from gastritis, peptic ulcer or nervous dyspepsia. We know that something is wrong with the stomach, we know there are certain nerves supplying the wall of the stomach and that they emit from a certain point in the spine. We know that these nerves must be free to carry the life-giving mental impulse to the stomach and that the only point along the entire course where this carrying capacity can be interfered with is where these nerves emit from the spinal column.

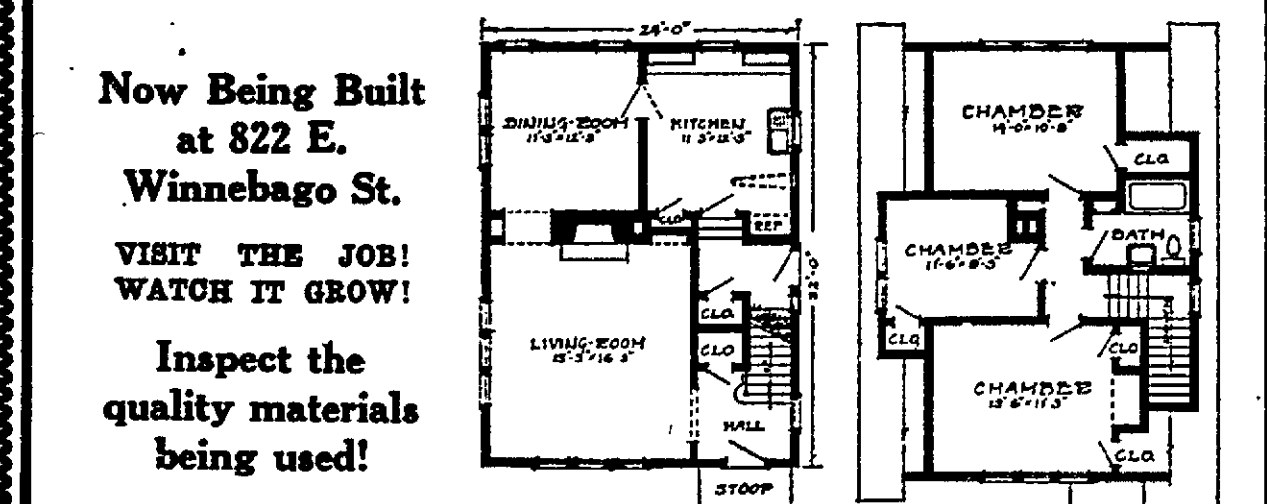

We know further that disease cannot exist unless the carrying capacity of these nerves is impaired. How do we know this? It is based upon the firm foundation of anatomical facts coupled with the unquestionable certainty of clinical results. What does the Chiropractor do? He adjusts the subluxations (a condition where the segments of the spine are not in proper alignment) and because of this adjustment the pressure is taken off the nerves supplying the stomach.

Now the nerves can carry mental impulses in normal quantity and quality to the stomach and under these conditions disease cannot exist. The type of disease which expresses itself in the stomach is the result, not of the foods which we eat, nor of the conditions under which we live, but rather of the type of nerve fibres which are affected by the subluxation, and the function for which they are utilized.

The Chiropractor cares not whether the expression of the incoordination is gastritis or dyspepsia, for that is but the manifestation of a condition which he knows must exist in the spine and which he knows he is able to correct, regardless of the name applied to your disease, which means nothing to the Chiropractor.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE and Jack didn't go home when they drove away from Harry Becker's. They turned down a side road that wound away into the dusk like a lady fluttering purple ribbon.

"Someone followed you today, Sue," Jack said. "Somebody either knew or supposed you had that sample of handwriting and wanted to get it back. But who?"

"Do you think Sybil could have been back of it?" Sue asked. "If she wrote the two, and found out that I was going out of town to see a photographer, she might have had me followed."

Jack turned a little, and the arm that he slipped around Sue pulled her a little closer.

"Sue," he said then, "we haven't any proof that Sybil wrote either of those messages. And we have to get on the trail of some."

"Not either of them?" Sue's voice caught and tangled the words. "But why..." she stopped too perplexed to question.

"Why would anyone else sign Sybil's name to that rose-petal tribute? Count me out! Unless someone was hiding behind Sybil, knowing that there was a ban on her actions anyway. Or...and I've got a hunch this is more like it...Sybil had somebody else sign her own name to that card with the flowers so, in case any significance was attached to it, she could say she was delirious. If nothing developed she would have the floral tribute on her side."

"Sybil Lester is a fiend," Sue answered. "And the trial opens tomorrow. If we only had one clue to use!"

"We're going to get one," Jack said, and removing his arm, turned the car back and sent it gliding swiftly down the road. I'm going to get some of Sybil's own handwriting."

Sue didn't ask any questions. She just waited for Jack to explain.

"I can't deliberately go to her and ask her to write her name of course," he said. "And I can't remember how she wrote. She sent me a note or two in the old days, but I didn't stick them away to alter forever. They went into the Welsh paper basket. But I've got a hunch she wrote Barbara's book."

Have the sense to shut out those thoughts. You are more than an average happy. You have a husband who adores you and you have a nice home and you're surrounded with plenty of friends. Unless you make a point of finding trouble for yourself, there is no reason why you shouldn't lead a pleasant, busy useful life. There is everything in the world for you to be happy about.

TAKE TIME OUT FOR RELAXATION DURING THE DAY

BY ALICIA HART

Maintaining a cheerful heart and a happy expression, through the long day of work often is a heroic act.

It may not have occurred to you that if you can learn to relax you have a head-start towards happiness on those less fortunate tense folks.

Time out for relaxation should be included in every time-budget of your working day, whether it is at home or in the office.

If you would take 10 minutes in the middle of the afternoon and actually relax, you would find it much easier to keep the bloom on your beauty and the flush off your temper.

There are several excellent relaxing exercises. In doing any of them, the idea you should keep in mind is to become as near a rag doll as you can. Or a scarecrow, flapping in the corn-field.

The first relaxing exercise should be done like this: Stand up straight, hold out your arms and begin shaking both your hands, from the wrists, having the hands as limp as possible. Then let your arms drop and shake your shoulders until your arms flop about. Then wriggle your shoulders up and down and get your back shaken up a bit.

Next, stand on one foot, shake the other leg a few times, rapidly, change feet and shake the other leg. Then spank yourself on first one hip, then another, and shake your body like a dog shakes himself when he gets up from sleeping.

Next, bend your head and shoulders forward, letting your arms swing loose, bending as far over as is necessary to be quite limp. Then, with your arms swinging and your head swinging limply, shake your whole body, just any way, this way and that, for by now your entire muscular system should be in a fair way of relaxing.

If you have the time and are somewhere where no one can see you, hum a tune and do a kind of staggering dance, this way and that for a few minutes, feeling like a drunken man, entirely relaxed.

You will be amazed, if you are not a relaxing-hound, how this kind of relaxing exercise wakes you up and makes you cheerful. Your flexed muscles are relaxed, your circulation is improved, you are on the high way to beauty again.

tion of this sort, and then the fat will be in the fire. If you harp just a little bit too much on the fact of your willingness to overlook her past—if you allow yourself to be a bit overwhelmed with the sense of your own generosity toward her, you will only arouse her fighting spirit. You must be a very wise man and a very gentle one to exert your influence in just the right way without appearing patronizing or self-righteous.

I do not want to throw up every sort of obstacle in your path but I want you to see clearly that this is no easy everyday job you're tackling. You've got to be one all-mighty sane wise man to carry off the situation in the right manner. And you've got to be prepared for an awful lot of mud-slinging when you take this step. Have you the courage to face what lies ahead, and having taken the big plunge have you to tact to go on being successful? If you have the best of luck to you.

JESSIE: Perhaps you did make a mistake in marrying before you had a chance to look around but for goodness' sake don't start worrying about that now. Once you get that problem revolving in your mind you'll never know a second's peace till you've found another romance and then you'll be in trouble for fair.

Have the sense to shut out those thoughts. You are more than an average happy. You have a husband who adores you and you have a nice home and you're surrounded with plenty of friends. Unless you make a point of finding trouble for yourself, there is no reason why you shouldn't lead a pleasant, busy useful life. There is everything in the world for you to be happy about.

When all these stray doubts and fears enter your mind banish them by thinking hard how much you have to be thankful for. Count your blessings whenever you have a spare moment. Believe me you have plenty. The Romance that Might Have Happened might never have turned out as successfully as your present marriage.

"Boots" Chooses a Snappy Outfit For Sports

Good times for "Boots"! She's going up for an airplane spin and, besides having fun, she's going to look as cute as can be. The costume is another in the series of "Boots" paper dolls. Cut it out and fit it on the figure of "Boots" published the other day. Watch for another addition to "Boots'" wardrobe tomorrow.

ALBION DEBATERS TO MEET LAWRENCE

Question of Compulsory Unemployment Insurance Will Be Discussed

A debate team representing Albion College, Albion, Mich., will meet a Lawrence college squad at 8:15 Monday evening at Peabody hall. The Lawrence men, Robert Beggs and Marcus Plant, are both veterans from last year.

The Albion team, composed of Benjamin Murray, Harold Spiegel, Robert McCulloch and Leland DeVinney is on a tour of the middle-west. Before coming to Appleton they have debated Coe at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Cornell at Ames and several other smaller Iowa schools. ### MOST FOODS TASTE BETTER IF COOKED IN SMALL AMOUNTS

Same is True of Hills Bros. Coffee, Which is Never Roasted in Bulk

When food is cooked in small quantities, the mixing, the application of heat, can be controlled with much more exactness. An omelet, for example, made of three eggs will turn out more tender and fluffy than one made of many eggs.

A similar situation occurs in roasting coffee. When roasted in bulk it is impossible to control the heat exactly. Some of the batch, therefore, is overdone and some underdone. As a result there is a variation in flavor.

In the invention of Controlled Roasting, Hills Bros. found the way to insure an even roast in their fine blend of coffee. Only a few pounds at a time are roasted by this patented, continuous process. When the roasting is finished a uniformly delicious flavor has been developed such as no other coffee has.

When you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab on the can.

GOOD NEWS MEN!

There are three kinds of shoes in the market today. GOOD SHOES, INDIFFERENT SHOES, AND BAD SHOES! Selling shoes is our business, and selling ONLY GOOD SHOES IS OUR PRIDE! Now, men, is there any reason why you should not have real good shoes, if you can buy them now for less than the cheap, ordinary kind? Our great sale offers you the opportunity of a life time — to buy the best — and save most — so are you going to be here?

Prices Like These Don't Just Happen!

The "Wolf Shoe Co." is not financed by any factory, or any "absentee" owner in Chicago, New York or elsewhere. This firm is a simon-pure, independently owned Appleton store. We are, therefore, absolutely free from any "entangling alliances" and dictations. Our buying power — our cash — enables us to buy and sell while others are still thinking and talking about it!

And we can go into the market, check book in hand, and without fear or favor, buy Great Quantities for SPOT CASH, and pass almost unbelievable savings to our customers before you can say "Jack Robinson". And every cent of capital of this business is invested in Appleton.

We Are Not in the "Sales" Habit We Do Not Holler "Sale" Every Day

Our sale is geared and oiled throughout for the most sensational "Shoe Carnival" ever held in Appleton! Shoes for the whole family — nationally known brands. Entire stock included in this gigantic sale! It's a sale you will never forget! It's a bargain sensation that will be on the lips of all the people for a long time to come! Come early! Come often! # OPEN MILL-ST BRIDGE TODAY AFTER REPAIRS

Higher Load Limit May Be Allowed, City Officials Expect

Menasha—Although two delays prevented its completion last week, the Mill-st bridge will be open to traffic today, according to Mayor N. G. Rammel and Peter Kassel, superintendent of streets.

Work on the renovation of the short bridge over the Lawson canal was delayed for a few hours Friday while officials awaited the arrival of a small amount of steel work. The snow storm also diverted street department activities for a short time and completion of the work Saturday was prevented.

Aided by favorable weather conditions, repairs have progressed rapidly for the past few weeks. Although the former road bed was removed and replaced by creosoted timbers and asphalt, planks, and all necessary repairs to steel work made, the entire renovation will be completed at a cost less than $14,000, officials expect.

With the weight and vibration almost eliminated, bus traffic across the bridge will be permitted, it is believed. The load limit for heavy traffic also will be raised considerably.

HENDY BOWLERS BEAT WRIGHTSTOWN TEAM

Menasha—Led by George Raleigh, who scored a 607 three game series and a 236 high single game, the Hendy Recreation No. 2 team swamped a Wrightstown aggregation on Hendy alleys Sunday afternoon. The Menasha five took all three games 11 to 1 by a 185 pin margin.

PAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. KIMBERLY AT FUNERAL SERVICES

Former Neenah Woman, Prominent in West, Is Buried from Daughter's Home

Neenah—Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. Kimberly who died at her home in Redlands, Calif., last Wednesday were held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen K. Stuart.

Dr. D. C. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in speaking about Mrs. Kimberly emphasized the life of service which she had given for others. He recalled the early pioneer days when she came as a bride to Neenah.

"Her father," Dr. Jones said, "born in Vermont, was associated with Cyrus Field in the project to lay a cable across the Atlantic. Her father's mother, a cousin of Francis E. Willard, was a great companion and friend of hers. She became imbued with her grandmother's high ethical standards; and this together with the influence and stimulus of association with the great men of the times who gathered around her father, laid the foundation for a life of service."

"What Mrs. Kimberly has done for the young womanhood is inestimable," says the Biographical Cyclopaedia of American Womanhood. They refer to the work she did among the hundreds of girls in Redlands which was so successful that the National Federation of Women's clubs accepted her plan for Junior members and in so doing gave nation-wide recognition to one of Mrs. Kimberly's chief activities.

Dr. Jones stated that when a resident of Neenah, Mrs. Kimberly found many outlets for her energy and enthusiasm for life and people, the public library, the theatre, the first pipe organ, the development of a National Home Economics movement and many other contributions to the welfare of society were due to her initiative.

Sons and grandsons of Mrs. Kimberly acted as pall bearers. They were: James Alfred Kimberly, John R. Kimberly and James Kimberly, Jr.; John Cheney Kimberly and Knox Kimberly; Kimberly Stuart, and Nathan Paine, a son-in-law.

Interment was made in the family mausoleum at the Oak Hill cemetery.

TOO FEW SIGNERS ARE ON PETITION

Request for Referendum on New Courthouse Can't Be Honored

Neenah—The number of signers on petitions filed with the county clerk asking for a referendum on whether the county should build a new courthouse, have been reduced by the fact that some of the affidavits were not properly executed.

There remains 2,077 names on the petition, whereas the number required by law is 2,285. That figure has been arrived at by taking 15 per cent of the total vote cast for governor in the county in the last gubernatorial election.

The petition was filed early last week with only 2,159 names attached to it. Roger Williams, route 5, Omro, who sent the petitions to the county clerk's office, has been informed of the lack of necessary signers.

Some of the names on the petitions were scratched off because the postoffice address of the signer was not given. Others were not considered because the affidavits were not properly executed.

The petitioners would have the question, "Shall Winnebago co. build a new courthouse?" placed on the ballot for the April 7 election. The county board is to meet Monday, March 9.

Attack Dry Law In Girl Murder Trial

Valparaiso, Ind.—(P)—Attorneys defending Virgil Kirkland, Gary, Ind., athlete on trial for the murder of Arlene Draves, today outlined their plans with a vigorous attack on "this prohibition age."

With the state planning to rest, the defense verified earlier reports that they intended to place Kirkland himself on the witness stand. When this will be done is yet to be decided.

Kirkland, the 20-year-old high school gridiron player, is expected to tell his version of the manner in which Arlene came to her death during a drinking party held in Gary last Nov. 29.

Attorney Barret O'Hara of the defense, in outlining his plans, blamed Kirkland's plight on "the moral laxity and contempt for law that has brought about such a social deterioration as to allow such parties."

He declared the party attended by Arlene and Kirkland was nothing unusual.

"Every night in every state of the union," he said, "young boys and girls are going out on parties much worse than this one. These poor children were not unusual; they were merely unfortunate. Thus they may or may not have become intoxicated. That is not an unusual thing under the prohibition law in these days. She suffered an accidental fall and was killed."

When Kirkland takes the stand, according to Defense Attorney Oscar B. Thiel, he will confine his testimony to events immediately preceding and during the party, leaving to the prosecution to bring out, if it chooses, his prowess on Horace Mann football team, his reputation as a "shiek" among the girls, and his expulsion from school for delinquency a short time before he was graduated.

LEWIS WILL AID CERMAK IN RACE FOR MAYOR'S JOB

Presidential Boom for Illinois' Democratic Senator to Help

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press

Chicago—(CPA)—A budding presidential boom for James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic senator-elect from Illinois, will play its part in Chicago's mayoral election April 7.

Appeal to the pride of the city in sponsoring a favorite son candidate who would go into the Democratic convention next year with a solidly entrenched party machine behind him, already has begun. At the same time it involves the active use of those oratorical powers for which Senator-elect Lewis is famed, in support of the party mayor's nominee, Anton J. Cermak.

This combination, involving a well-knit Democratic machine now in control of all important offices in the county with the exception of mayor, stands an excellent chance of terminating the political career of William Hale Thompson, according to the judgment of nearly all local political wisecracks.

Unless the field is divided by the entrance of Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, former health commissioner and a favorite with the lady voters, Cermak admittedly is in line to mop up with "Big Bill," the present mayor and Republican nominee.

Statistics are pointed to as indicative of the line-up. After the expenditure of large sums and a campaign display not before equalled in Chicago, Mayor Thompson was able to poll 2,681,000 votes in the primary, Feb. 24.

Negro Support

The Thompson majority came from the Negro wards and from normal Democratic territory where party voters may have concluded that he was easier to beat than Judge John H. Lyle. Cermak, without organized opposition, and without a real campaign polled 236,000 voters—or only 50,000 more than the Republican nominee. Altogether 575,000 votes were polled in the primary for candidates other than Thompson and only 298,000 for Thompson.

The opponents of "Big Bill" are bitter and many prominent Republicans already have declared for the Democratic nominee. The Chicago Tribune is supporting Cermak, although staunchly Republican as a rule.

However, should the coroner complicate the race, as he threatens to do, then the Thompson opposition would stand a good chance of reelection to a fourth term.

J. Ham Lewis, throat improved thoroughly well after an infection which set in when he swallowed a bug during the course of a campaign speech last November, will wield the heavy oratorical guns for the Democrats. His intense popularity, which gave him a 400,000 majority in Cook county alone in November, is expected to offset the antics of "Big Bill."

If victorious locally, the Democrats then want to honor Colonel Lewis by presenting him with a solid delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1932.

LEAVES CHICAGO TO SCOTLAND YARD

London—Here's something for "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago, who don't like King George or anything English. Scotland Yard could clean up Chicago and no less an authority than Cecil Bishop, one of the best known men of "the yard," says so.

Scotland Yard could deal with Chicago, but it would be a tough job," he says. "The gangsters would be easy. It would be the police that the Yard would go after. "Crime can never flourish in any country where the police are efficient and straight. The U. S. police, on the whole, are very efficient, but many of them are also very crooked. Any Scotland Yard chief, asked to clean up Chicago, would start by firing the whole police highest official."

"The task would be great that I believe only a superman would succeed, unless prohibition were abolished."

The European total shows an increase of about 100 per cent since 1927, when the services in operation covered a total of 36,537 miles. Comparative figures for Africa and Australia are not available at present.

Fire Forces Trotzky Out Of His Home

Istanbul, Turkey—(P)—Leon Trotzky, Russian revolutionary leader who for more than a year has been a man without a country, has been burned out of house and home.

The villa which he has occupied during his exile on Prinkipo island, in the Sea of Marmora, took fire before dawn yesterday and burned to the ground before Trotzky and his wife, both of whom are ill with malaria, could rescue more than a few of their possessions.

The fire began from an overheated stove in a bathroom on the lower floor of the villa, and awakened the cook who roused the family. Trotzky's secretary seized two fire extinguishers belonging to the house but found both empty. When the Turkish firemen arrived they had no water and the house burned down while they debated what to do.

Trotzky was not able to save even a suit of clothes, but he did preserve some valuable letters from Lenin. Material for a book which he has been writing was lost as was his valuable library of hundreds of books. He managed to save a manuscript of a history of the Russian revolution which is about the best published.

He and his wife took refuge in a Prinkipo hotel, where he instructed his secretary to announce that the fire had no connection with white Russians or the present Soviet regime. He commented that he intended to leave next month anyway, because the proprietor, son of a former Turkish

New London—Announcement Saturday that a federal allotment of approximately $75,000 would be made next year for construction of a new postoffice in this city was received here with satisfaction. No official notification has yet been received, however, by G. H. Putnam, postmaster.

It is recognized that erection of a new building will improve the general appearance of the city, and will aid the employment problem.

A suggestion was made about five years ago regarding a new postoffice building, but nothing ever came of it then.

Your Birthday

"PIECES"
If March 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

March 3rd is, according to the planetary aspects, a good day for attending to correspondence, and the arrangement of social matters. Financial loss is threatened if speculation or investments are made. Trouble may be anticipated at home either through opposition or uncongenial conditions.

A child born on this March 3rd will have a combative spirit, and though easily led, will never be driven. It will have a strong will and a commanding personality. If not browbeaten, it will achieve maturity with an unconquerable ambition to succeed—and, probably, will do so.

If you were born on March 3rd, you are very energetic and industrious. You not only do what is expected of you—but always a little bit more. You never grudge the extra effort or the extra time that is often inconveniently asked of you. You always realize that in life it is the little extra bit that counts. This desire to do so much makes up, in a large measure, for what you are lacking in knowledge and learning. Your memory is, unfortunately not a very retentive one, and this factor has handicapped you in all your studies.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

BURLEIGH GRIMES and Jesse Haines of the Cardinal pitching staff, have been granted three weeks at Hot Springs, Ark., by the Cardinals management.... the Cards are doing things in a big way nowadays.... back in 1919 the Cards were so flat broke they couldn't even send a single player south.... had to train at home that year.... St. Louis will pay to watch a winner, but the crowds there stay away from a second division team.... the combined ages of Grimes and Haines is nearly 74 years, and it's almost a 50-50 break between their ages.... Grimes will be 37 August 18.... Haines will be 36 August 18.... the best games of the 1930 world series will be July 22.... this will be the Grimes' 17th season as a regular in the majors.... and Haines' 17th.

Enemies — But Very Friendly

These two young men, you'll agree, constitute dangerous threats in the path of Max Schmeling's successful reign as heavyweight champion of the world. They're both in training at Miami Beach, but Young Stribling, left, gets first chance at the German next summer while Mickey Walker, right, must wait longer. The clinching appears friendly enough here, but it is possible that they will meet farther on down the road with the world's championship at stake—and then things may be different.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

I n line with his statement that he would not talk about John Schneller, Neenah high school athlete who now is a grid star at the University of Wisconsin, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite also said he'd rather not comment on what he expected of Appleton boys who are members of the university grid squad. The grid mentor did say, though he liked Harvey Kramholz, former high school tackle who now is trying for a guard post on the Badger eleven.

Thistlethwaite was not very impressive as he stood in front of the Neenah Rotarians and talked to them but after the luncheon was over and the Rotarians came up to shake his hand, Thistlethwaite became a talker and conversed at length about his many football experiences, casually discussed some of the boys he acquaintances situated to know about, and the athletic situation generally.

He said he was confident that "Buckets" Goldenberg who quit the university this other day because of financial difficulties would, he back in the fall and that he could easily make up a deficiency in German by taking one course at summer school. Goldenberg, Thistlethwaite said, has worked as a filling station attendant at Madison making about $10 a week. He was trying to pay all his college bills with the money and found it impossible. If he can get a full time job now and acquire some extra cash and make up his German, things will be all right.

The Badger mentor said he'd rather not enter into the question about Schneller going out for basketball this year. Schneller had much pressure brought to bear to report for basketball but decided that he'd rather not. Schneller aspires to greater heights as a gridder. Thistlethwaite, and even now spends much of his time trying to correct a rum-

Baseball Teams Carrying Too Many Idle Players

(Editor's Note: John B. Foster, noted authority and the author and codifier of many rules of the game, has started his annual coast-to-coast trip around the baseball playing camps. Stopping first in Chicago on his way to the California camps, he has interviewed Charles A. Comiskey, dean of the major league club owners. From California, Foster will swing back through Texas and wind up his tour in Florida. His daily dispatches describing the condition of players and teams and analyzing their prospects in the 1931 pennant races will appear exclusively in the Post-Crescent.)

CHICAGO — (CPA)—The "Old Roman" has reached back beyond the years for some of the fire of his youth. Though past his seventy-fifth milestone, he promises to be in the thick of the fight this year to win another championship in the American league with the Chicago White Sox.

Charles Comiskey was one of the greatest ball players of his day. Today he is as enthusiastic as ever about the game, but he is nevertheless the most radical club owner in the United States. He thinks there are things in baseball that need to be corrected, and he is out for reform.

Comiskey has not forgotten the severest blow of his life. That was in 1919, when players sold their honor to gamblers and threw away the world series in the notorious "Black Sox" scandal. He grieved over it for years and he is still grievous.

Purchasers of tickets may obtain the rebate by presenting their tickets to the college office before March 15. The Hamline game was scheduled for Alexander gymnasium on March 6.

THETAS AND DELTS WIN THEIR GAMES IN BOYS' TOURNEY

Galloping Ghosts and Betas Are Eliminated from Further Play

BETA Hi-Y and Galloping Ghost basketball teams in the double elimination tournament being held at the Y. M. C. A. were ousted from further competition Saturday afternoon when both were defeated the second time. The Betas dropped a 16 to 5 game to the Thetas and the Ghosts were trimmed by the Deltas 16 and 6.

Tuesday evening two more games are on tap. In the first game of the evening at 7:30 the Deltas will tackle the Bears. The second game shows the Wolverines and Midgets. Van Ryzin got four field goals in the first half to give the Deltas a 10 to 0 lead over the Ghosts. In the second period each team scored six points, but the victory already had been rendered by first period play. Kruse scored three points for the losers.

Rossmessel and Hecker each counted two field goals in the first half for the Theta Hi-Y team while Bleich was mounting the only marker for the Betas and the former outfit won easily. The second half saw Rossmessel get two more goals and Carnes and Hecker one each. Bleich got another goal for the losers and Stuch a free throw.

Cornell Gets Revenge For Grid Defeat By Ousting Vikings From Cage Race

Take Early Lead and Defeat Dennyman 32 and 29 in Close Game

BY JACK WILLEM
OUST THE VIKINGS IOWA—The brilliant Lawrence defense is no more. Messrs. Brandeau and Gabrielson, Cornell forwards, ran up 33 points between them here Saturday night and this total, together with the small Cornell gymnasium, was enough to nose Lawrence out of the running for the Midwest conference championship. The score was 32 to 29.

It was sweet revenge for Brandeau, Warner, and O'Connor all members of the football team which was knocked out of the title at Appleton last fall when Eddie Kotal's eleven nosed out a 7 to 6 win. The Cornell halfback, who the Miller Cords and Olson's Terrible Swedes called "that football genius," and with this chant ringing in their ears the Cornell basketballers got an early lead and ran up an 18 to 10 advantage at the half, an advantage which the Vikings tried vainly to overcome.

It was sweet revenge for Rittger and Dean, the Cornell coaches, whose cagers suffered a one point defeat two years ago at Mount Vernon, and last year at Appleton. The Cornell forwards, playing the corners and sleeping Vike guards, split the hitherto strong defense on easy plays.

Three "sleepers" garnered by Gabrielson in the closing minutes for play killed all chances of a Lawrence win. The Vikings had rallied desperately and successfully to pull within one point of the leaders only to have Gabrielson nullify the spurt with the three easy goals.

It was eight minutes after the starting whistle before Biggers counted the first Lawrence point on a free throw. Cornell led at that time 8 to 1. Hall and Fischl contrived to make the Lawrence total 4 but Cornell with Gabrielson and Brandeau leading ran up a heavy margin at the half. In this period it was only five markers by Biggers and four by Fischl which kept the Vikes in the running.

Replacing Haase and then Hall with Rafoth to start the second, the lanky Soph proved excellent help under the hoop as Lawrence was forced to adopt Cornell's style of play, shoot and follow. The small court would not allow for Biggers' under-the-basket shots, nor were the Vikes successful at any time to work a play from slow formation. Cornell fought for every ball, followed on both backboards, and used a quick break from a stalling game in the final minutes which sewed up the contest.

The second half rally carried Lawrence within a point 22 to 21 but Gabrielson and Brandeau pushed Cornell ahead until the final gun sounded as Rafoth bounced a shot in with his head for his sixth basket of the evening.

Gabrielson took high scoring honors with 15 points followed by Rafoth with 12. Biggers although coming close, failed to tally on his long heaves and counted no more than eight points.

Monday the cagers rested in Fairbault, Minn., in preparation for their final game of the season against Carleton at Northfield Monday night.

WILDCAT COACHES WIN TITLES IN FOURTH YEAR

WISCONSIN CLOSES CAGE SEASON WITH PURDUE AT MADISON

Boilermakers Swamped
Badgers Ten Days Ago by
Score of 46 and 27

MADISON—Coach Walter E. Meanwell's University of Wisconsin basketball team will wind up the season against Purdue in the field house Monday night in a game which the Badgers, though conceding little chance for victory, may be counted on for a desperate fight to better their final ranking.

Ten days ago the Boilermakers trounced the Badgers by a score of 46 to 27 at Lafayette. No partisan of Wisconsin is so rabid as to say openly that the Meanwell team can reverse a rout like that. Yet Meanwell-coached teams are rarely whipped until a game is over and the Badgers will hold nothing back Monday night. Whatever the score, basketball fans here know that Wisconsin will put up a fight worth watching.

There can be no surprises in the Badger lineup. The little doctor has just eight men upon whom he must rely—Steen, Steinmetz, Nelson, Trowske, Wichman, Inman, Poser and Rehholz. He will use them all against the Boilermakers. A victory would not help Wisconsin's percentage a great deal, but it would be a great finish to what has been Wisconsin's most disastrous season for many years. There will be no necessity to "key" the Badgers for this battle.

LOSE TO WOLVERINES
Madison—UP—A strong defense gave Michigan a 25 to 15 victory over Wisconsin at basketball here Saturday night. The tall Williamson and Daniels were ever in close for the rebounds and Michigan often pulled the Badgers out of their defense and rushed in for short shots. Wisconsin scored on the tip-off, but the Wolverines quickly ran their score to 7, and led 16 to 12 at the half. Wisconsin scored only three points in the second half.

Sports Question Box

Question—Does Babe Ruth receive an extra allowance when he goes into training in advance of his club?

Answer—That question must be answered by the club or by Ruth in person. It is a matter between him and the club.

Question—Len Harvey, the British fighter claims to have participated in over 300 contests. Can that be true, considering the short time he has been fighting?

Answer—Harvey's claims are not borne out by the individual record of fights he gave out. Undoubtedly Harvey fought in the stalls of England, taking on all comers. This would mean meeting from six to ten boys each day. With these counting, it is possible he took part in that number of contests.

Question—When did an English player last win the Wimbledon singles?

Answer—In the year 1899.

BILL WOULD PROVIDE FOR MORE TRAINING

Madison—(P)—Beginning with the school year 1931-32 all applicants for teaching positions in common schools must have completed two years of work beyond high school training under a bill introduced in the legislature by Sen. E. J. Rothe, Fennimore.

The two years of work beyond high school would be devoted to pedagogical instruction and training before a certificate to teach in the common schools is granted, under Sen. Rothe's bill. If there are an insufficient number of teachers in 1931-32 who cannot meet the requirements, the state superintendent would be permitted to grant exemptions.

The Doria skinned into a tie with the Flying Dutchman by taking two laps on the 20-mile course yesterday in 58 minutes and in one hour and 10 minutes.

WHISTLES? THIS MAN HAS 300

London—In ten years of collecting A. J. Willins, Brighton confectioner has gathered more than 300 different whistles from all parts of the world.

He has whistles shaped like soldiers, birds, teapots, horses, cows and all sorts of animals. There are tiny and huge ones. He has four from Palermo, Sicily, which date back to 1899. One of these represents a soldier in armor.

Several of his whistles are shaped to reproduce faithfully the calls of birds. These, he informs, were used by gamekeepers and bird fanciers.

Landis' Authority Hangs On Federal Court Decision

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1931

NEW YORK—(CPA)—The basic structure of organized baseball hangs in the balance in the awaited court decision on the final disposition of the services of player Fred Bennett of the Milwaukee club, according to word from Commissioner Landis, whose rule over the game has been challenged by this lawsuit.

In substance, the commissioner is quoted as saying that if the suit goes against him as the representative of organized baseball, the major and minor leagues may as well tear up the national agreement and begin over again.

It is said that Judge Landis is perfectly satisfied that the Bennett case, testing his power to make final disposition of a player, has been brought because it either will establish the present organization of baseball or bring about a reaction and another reorganization. Reorganization and reaction both are dreaded by the major league owners, who have had all they wish of court actions. They don't play the game as a rule.

THOMAS BROTHERS COP WESTERN BIKE TITLES

Milwaukee—(CP)—The Thomas brothers, Bobby and George, Kenosha, holders of the national senior and junior bicycle championships, took the western bike roller meet here yesterday.

Bobby won the senior honors with 60 points and George annexed 90 to win the junior class. George made a slam in his division by taking first in all events.

The American league was at liberty to pirate players in any league in which they could be found.

This action threw the minor leagues into consternation and they formed the national association to protect themselves. They adopted an agreement which had not direct bearing upon any organizations but their own.

Then the major leagues became reconciled and finally decided to adopt the present agreement. When this was done it was the opinion of major league club owners that a one-man authority was absolutely necessary and the services of Judge Landis were secured.

The present agreement had not been long in effect when there were mutterings from two or three sources against the authority of the commissioner. Some of this protest came from the St. Louis Americans whose owner, it was asserted, was the only major league man who had voted in opposition to Judge Landis' election.

It is agreed that baseball affairs in general have been better handled under his jurisdiction than before, although he has imposed some severe fines and has been an open opponent of the policy of the chain store system in baseball, evidently fearing the arising of a condition similar to that created when organized baseball was once sued as a trust.

New X-Ray Tube Enables Experts To Direct Beams

New York—(CP)—The uses of a new rifle-like sharpshooting X-ray tube were explained to scientists here today.

The tube shoots its X-rays in a narrow beam out of the end of the tube, instead of scattering them underbuss fashion from a big bulge in the middle.

Greater safety in health treatment was claimed. Both operators and patients can be more easily screened from dangerous random rays. The new beam can be laid upon the exact surface spot needing X-rays, with only the thickness of a calling card intervening between the rayed surface and the beam source.

The tube was described by its inventor, Dr. Dimitry E. Olshefsky of Yale university, to a meeting of the American Physical society and the Optical Society of America at Columbia university, and the Museums of the Peaceful Arts.

X-rays are generated by the impact when a stream of electrons hits a flat, solid surface, called the "target."

This target usually is tungsten and is fixed in the middle of the big bulb in a tube. From the target the rays scatter liberally in all directions, some going into the target and others back toward the electron beam.

In the new tube the target is very thin, so that a goodly proportion of the X-rays pass completely through in a straight line. Dr. Olshefsky said these straight-line rays are broadly speaking more intense than those scattered. The old type tubes use only the scattered rays, but in the sharpshooting tube these old rays all are bottled up tightly by a strong shielding.

Past the target, the straight-line rays pass faster than rifle bullets through a flat metal plate which is the "window" of the tube. This window is a light metal, often aluminum, which lies flush with the back of the target.

The "window" metal transmits X-rays freely, but it also filters them, so that the operator gets a beam of nicely controlled direction and precisely measured strength.

"Special tubes," said Dr. Olshefsky, "based upon the new principle may prove of value for medicinal purposes."

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

SYNOPSIS: Jimmie Haswell's ruse traps Lionel Duckworth as the murderer of Annabelle Querling and the poisoner of Green. The former Evelyn Blake, his wife, is revealed as his accomplice and plotter to gain her aunt's fortune. Green had been poisoned, and a note found by his side confessed his murder of Miss Querling. When Jimmie discovers the truth and tells Evelyn, she thinks he alone knows it and informs Duckworth, who pushes a stone image over on a dummy wearing Jimmie's clothes. Jimmie and his cousin Donald capture him. They confront Evelyn and discover that a photograph has been playing records of Duckworth's voice as he planned his argument to the bewildered Superintendent Richmond.

Chapter 29
MENED ROMANCE
“YOU remember,” said Jimmie as Nancy, Donald and the superintendent followed him eagerly, that Duckworth had told us of seeing a woman pass outside the house on the night Miss Querling was killed. I got the woman, Mrs. Frater, to go that way again. To see her was possible, but it was necessary to be close to the window, very close indeed. You found that, Richmond. You had to press your face against the glass. But it did not suggest anything to you. Duckworth explained that he drew the curtains for the sake of privacy, but why did he peer so carefully up and down the garden? Was it not to see that it was safe for him to slip out?”

“Probably it was,” said Richmond, “but few would have thought of it. I did suspect him for a moment when he mentioned the woman. I thought he might have imagined her. But it proved to be true.”
“Exactly. Then the singing all the time. Did that suggest nothing? The lovers were alone together, yet there were no affectionate interludes, only continuous singing in that powerful voice audible in the adjoining rooms. Hardly natural, was it? Yet it was consistent with a desire to make people think there was no interval or break.”

“Why did you hesitate?”
“It is not easy to believe that a pleasant-mannered girl can be so heart capable of dishonest and cunning murder. Had it been Duckworth alone, there might have been no reason for hesitation. But Evelyn was implicated as deeply as her lover.”

“Every one seemed to realize the matter of motive so far as Marjorie was concerned, but, as I pointed out to you two or three times, it was identically the same with Evelyn.”
“Well, we reached rather a dead-lock until the night Green was found dying with his supposed confession by his side. Then things seemed to happen all at once. I came across Surling and Marjorie love-making, and was compelled to change my route. Audrey discovered that it was Surling's car we had been worrying about, and I noticed something that to me was more significant than any of these things. It was while we were playing bridge that the confession must have been put by Green's side. Duckworth was in the adjoining room smoking, and at the appropriate moment, we were favored with the same two songs—‘To the Desert’ and ‘September Roses.’ I might have burst into the room then, but I had no reason to suspect mere devilry. To be quite honest, it was not until Green was found and I was in the garage with Netherton that its significance dawned on me. When I got back to the house, Duckworth had already gone. No doubt the graphophone went with him. So I had to wait.”

The superintendent seemed fascinated as he looked at the photograph needle. “I wonder how they got that queer dope used on Green?” he asked.
“Seeds of Paradise,” said Jimmie. Duckworth was once employed in a brewery and this poison is used as an adulterant in beer. I think Evelyn realized by knowledge of this poison might lead police to the person who used it.”
“How did you know they were married?” inquired Nancy.
“That takes us back to the time when they called on me about those letters. Had they determined then what they meant to do? I think Evelyn was in love, and Duckworth impressed with the idea of marrying a rich wife. When he found the suit opposed, he determined to remove her, and gradually persuaded Evelyn to do as he wished. They probably thought that by calling in the police and seeing an alleged expert outside the would divert suspicion from themselves. It was the same cunning that caused Duckworth to point out that, probably not all the letters were written by the same hand, as he figured that I should probably detect the variations anyway.”

“But the marriage,” put in Nancy.
“Be patient. When they called on me and they referred to my powers of deduction, I said that from Duckworth's attire I might deduce it was his birthday. Exchanging an odd look, they said it was. Seeing that look, I wasn't so sure, and later it occurred to me that fellows wear new clothes on other occasions than on birthdays. What about a wedding day? So I inquired and learned that Lionel Dalton and Evelyn Blake had married on the very day they called on me.”
Nancy was still curious. “Was the will really lost, or did Evelyn and Lionel hide it and then put it back?”
“That Annabelle Querling would have put such an intimate document into the well of a work basket is unlikely. My idea is that Evelyn knew of the will and decided to secrete it, realizing that its provisions barring marriage would point to Duckworth and herself. What they could not foresee was that the search for it would take place during their absence at the inquest. It was difficult to replace it afterwards. But, when their plot against Green seemed likely to succeed, they discovered a place where the will could plausibly be found in spite of the previous search. So that ended another possible ground of suspicion.”
After more discussion, finally the superintendent rose to go, extending his hand to Jimmie. “I cannot say, sir, how much I owe to you. But for your help I might have taken me a precious long time to puzzle it out.”
At last the time came for Jimmie to say good-bye. “I seem to hear London's peace and innocence calling me. These country places are too exciting, but there is one call I want to pay before I go. It is Mrs. Netherton.”
So, a clasp of the hand for Donald, a kiss for his pretty wife, and the homeward way began. Jimmie was wondering how things would go with Bill and Audrey. That their engagement would be renewed there was little doubt, and, of course, sometime in the future they would marry.
When he reached Corner Cottage Mrs. Netherton was standing in her garden. She smiled at him.
“Ah, Mr. Haswell,” she said. “When two young people are in love and don't know it, what should you do about it? Bill and Audrey have been pals so long that they seemed to get to the brother-and-sisterly stage. Then this trouble came and they did not meet often. Audrey came to me, and I could see she was just miserable without Bill. As to Bill—the sore-headed bear was by comparison a docile pet. So what should be done?”
“You say Audrey called? Did you hint at anything?”
“No, I left her in my room a half hour ago and told Bill there was some one for him. I did not say who it was, but I pushed him in and locked the door. I am wondering what I ought to do next.”
As she spoke, Bill and Audrey suddenly appeared, arm-in-arm, round the corner of the house. “You forgot the window,” he told his mother.
“My dear Bill,” she retorted, “it took you a half hour to remember it.”
“Looks as though 'm in the way,” Jimmie was grinning. “I have only one ambition left—to kiss the bride now. In case I am not asked to the wedding.”
“You shall be!” said Audrey.
“But—if Bill doesn't mind—”

REP. COOPER, 80, STRICKEN AFTER LONG SERVICE

Badger Congressman Oldest Member in House in Point of Service

also Robert M. LaFollette. At the 1924 convention in Cleveland, he sponsored several LaFollette plans and later supported the Wisconsin Progressive for the presidency. Admired Roosevelt. He had known every president personally since Cleveland and had a high regard for McKinley, Roosevelt and Wilson. He was with Roosevelt in Milwaukee at the time the attempt was made upon the life of the former president, running for another term in 1912.

Soon after his election to congress, Representative Cooper was successful in rounding up enough opposition to kill the "Santa Monica grab," in which the Southern Pacific railroad sought to obtain $2,000,000 from the government for improvement of its California property.

Representative Cooper, as chairman of the insular affairs committee, was credited with establishment of a liberal government for the newly acquired Philippine islands.

Always a liberal and a peace partisan, he said prior to the entrance of America into the World war: "I assume war is to come. When it comes, we will be united in support of the government. I shall do all that I can to help achieve victory for our country."

"But true to his conviction, he voted against war."

A fall last summer at his Racine home marked the beginning of his decline in health, his friends said. Recent worry over a serious operation Mrs. Cooper underwent added to his cares and contributed further to his breakdown which was climaxed by his death.

Born at Walworth, Wisconsin, Sept. 8, 1850, Cooper was graduated from Northwestern university. He attended Union College of Law at Chicago, and began practice at the law firm of Racine, Wis., which city he adopted as his home in 1875.

Cooper's height, his snowy white beard, and dignified carriage, gave him a distinction that always commanded attention when he entered debate.

He attributed his one defeat to the fact that his opponent had singled out votes to various amendments to war bills, rather than his votes on passage of the measures.

For his two open clashes in 1923-24 with the controlling powers of the Republican party, he was removed at the opening of the Sixty-Ninth congress from his high position on the House Foreign Affairs committee and placed at the foot of the list of Republican members as punishment for his support of the LaFollette movement.

He was one of the few members to adhere to the truck coat, so conventional on Capitol Hill in the earlier days of American history.

Cooper was first elected to the Fifty-third congress previously having served in the Wisconsin senate. He was a delegate to the Republican National convention in 1884 and for a time served as district attorney for Racine-co.

TO CALL SPECIAL ELECTION

Madison—(UP)—Under the provisions of the election statutes, Gov. Taylor LaFollette will call a special election to select a successor to Congressman Henry Allen Cooper, Racine, who died in Washington last night.

If the congressman's death had occurred at least 40 days prior to April 7 his successor would be chosen at the election to be held on that date. Should the governor fail to call a special election a successor would not be chosen until the next general election.

Coincidentally with the death of Mr. Cooper the names of three Progressives and four Conservatives were mentioned at the capitol as possible candidates for the congressional seat. Although there have been no conferences between party leaders, the names of Jack K. Kyle, White-water, Assemblyman Stanley Slagg, Edgerton, and Thomas Amle, Elk-horn, attorney, have been heard.

Mr. Kyle is Gov. LaFollette's secretary.

Among the conservative possibilities are Sen. Walter S. Goodland, Racine; Stephen Bolles, Janesville newspaper editor; Sen. George W. Blanchard, Edgerton, Conservative leader in the senate, and Vilas Whaley, Racine attorney.

Governor Pays Tribute

In a statement issued from his executive office in the capitol today, to the public services of Congressman Cooper, Racine, who died last night. The governor's statement read as follows:

"A great figure has passed away. For half a century Henry Allen Cooper was a part of the public life of Wisconsin and the nation. He rendered distinguished and honorable service throughout his long and useful life. He will be remembered not because of the public offices he occupied, but because of the intelligence, courage and character he exemplified at every point in his career."

"From the time he fathered the Australian ballot in the Wisconsin legislature as a young man in his thirties, until his life ended as a venerable man of eighty years, he never lost his interest in making things better or his willingness to fight for a good cause. Without hesitation he voted his convictions against war in 1917, and went down to defeat for reelection. Without hesitation at seventy-four years of age he faced the hostile Republican national convention with Wisconsin's minority platform, and although defeated again, his courage and youthful spirit thrilled the convention as has seldom happened either before or since."

"Through all the vicissitudes, triumphs and defeats of public life, Henry Allen Cooper never became soured or embittered. A courageous fighter for a cause, he never lost his kindly consideration for human beings with whom he disagreed."

"For twenty-five years he was an intimate and beloved personal friend of every member of our family."

"Wisconsin and the nation have lost a rare patriot and a noble man."

HAUGEN NOW 'DEAN'

Northwood, Iowa—(UP)—The death of Representative Henry A. Cooper of Wisconsin leaves Representative Gilbert N. Haugen, 71, of the Fourth Iowa district as the oldest congressman in point of length of service.

Haugen, a Republican, will start his thirty-third year in the house of representatives Thursday. He was reelected last November for a seventeenth term, having begun his service March 4, 1899.

Cooper had served 18 terms, but they were not consecutive. Haugen's most prominent congressional work was his co-authorship of the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill, as chairman of the house agricultural committee.

ORDER WORK STARTED ON NEW POST OFFICE

Word was received at the Appleton Post Office this morning by William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster, that the federal postal department has approved the building bond furnished by the Tappan Construction company, of Albert Lea, Minn., and has ordered the firm to proceed at once with construction of the new Appleton post office. Building is expected to start within a week or 10 days. The Albert Lea firm was the lowest of 23 bidders, with an estimate of about $180,000.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID

Bogota, Colombia—Thousands of men have been put to work in this city in an effort to relieve the unemployment situation. The job given each one is the same, and shows foresight on the part of city officials. Each will be given a part in the city's cleanup campaign, carried out in preparation for the centennial of Simon Bolivar, national hero of South American nations.

Business Outlook Shows Improvement, Barnes Says

Building construction was a little less than $90,000,000 off from a year ago, with corresponding reduction in building material movements.

The bottom was reported for structural steel tonnage in January with a decided improvement following well through February. Concrete paving jumped so that contracts were greater than in any recent year.

A pickup was noted in long distance telephone communication, but telegraph and cable business, railroad and street car traffic will still off. Electric output for February was some 5 per cent. below last year, but the new construction budgeted by the power utilities was some 40 millions above last year's high total.

Steel production rose from 39 per cent plant capacity in December to 52 in February. Automobile production rose in January a little more than usual at this season.

Allen Kapitzke, 228 Coe-st., Oak-kosh, received minor injuries and a milk wagon was demolished about 4 o'clock this morning in a collision at the corner of Fifth-st and Memorial-dr. Kapitzke was driving south on Memorial-dr and the milk wagon was parked on the right side of the street, facing south, when the collision occurred. The front end of Kapitzke's car was damaged. C. Bell, 504 Roosevelt-st, was the driver of the milk wagon, which was owned by the Appleton Pure Milk company. Kapitzke's face was cut.

DON'T EXPECT CONGRESS TO PASS BUS LAWS

Attention Turns to States to See if They Will Accomplish Anything

BY GEORGE E. DOYING

Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—It is apparent today that the present session of congress will adjourn without enacting a law for the regulation of interstate motor bus operation. Hence, attention will turn to the state legislatures for such relief as they may be able to accomplish in the effort to control the bus business.

This completes the sixth year of effort to secure federal legislation, which has been sought not only by the railroads but by the motor bus operators themselves, as well as by the state regulatory commissions representing the public. After having been the subject of numerous hearings conducted by congressional committees and an exhaustive investigation by the interstate commerce commission, a bill was passed by the house last March and was reported to the senate in May. It was on the senate calendar for action at the present session, but was recommended to the committee on interstate commerce and there remains.

In nearly every one of the state legislatures now in session there is pending some form of proposed legislation designed further to control or to tax the motor carriers.

No Legislation

Wyoming's is the only one of the 48 legislatures which began sessions in January that has finished its work. No bus legislation was enacted in that state.

In those states which do not now exercise complete control of bus operations, bills are pending to give the state commission such control. Many states are attempting to impose additional taxes on buses, and a bill in Tennessee proposes that such carriers shall be required to pay one-third of the cost of eliminating grade crossings on highways used by buses.

Much of this proposed legislation is attributed to the activity of the railroads, some of which allege that the motor carriers are not proportionately taxed. The latter, however, assert that motor bus transportation pays a larger proportion of its gross revenues for taxes than any other public utility in the United States, including the railroads. Annual taxes paid by motor buses, they claim amount to 7.3 cents out of every dollar they take in, while the average paid by all public utilities, railroads and buses included, is 4.5 cents from each dollar. Railroad taxes in 1929 represented 1.5 per cent of total investment, while bus taxes amounted to 7.68 per cent of their total investment, the bus men say.

Not all of the railroads are insisting upon increases in bus taxes, because some of them are surprisingly large owners of buses. The report of the interstate commerce commission's investigation in the matter of coordination of common carriers will show that class 1 railroads have a property investment in motor vehicles of more than $40,000,000. Most of this investment is in motor buses and facilities for their operation in the business of carrying passengers. The Southern Pacific company alone has an investment of $10,400,000, while the Pennsylvania and the New Haven roads each has an investment of approximately $6,500,000.

Business Interferes With Social Whirl At Capital

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS

(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor.)

Washington—Business, business everywhere—and certainly business before pleasure last week in Washington. Congress was in a mad, last-minute scramble of work with night sessions making senators and representatives late to dinners at which they were guests of honor or even hosts.

And everyone else in the National Capital seemed to be too busy watching Congress to do much entertaining or to add to the gaiety of a social schedule already dulled by Lent.

However, there were lots of odds and ends and wags of news of Wisconsin people in the city.

Representative-elect Gerald Boileau of Vaucluse called at Senator LaFollette's office during his stay here last week and announced his intention of remaining in Washington until after March 4.

Senators-elect and Mrs. Edward P. Costigan of Colorado, old friends of the LaFollettes, also called at the Capitol office.

Senator and Mrs. LaFollette are looking hopefully and eagerly forward to a vacation in the south after the middle of March. No definite plans of time or place have been made yet.

For the first time since his appointment as chief of staff, General Douglas MacArthur, formerly of Wisconsin, Thursday made an official appearance reviewing the troops at Fort Myer. The garrison was particularly pleased at being chosen as the first to be reviewed by the general and presented many novel and special features. It was their last drill of the season.

Chris L. Christensen, who recently resigned as executive secretary of the federal farm board to become dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Christensen were guests at a dinner Thursday given for them by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Teague. Mr. Teague is a member of the Federal Farm Board.

CONSIDER THREE NATIONAL PARKS

National Commission Has Three Possible Sites in Wisconsin

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—The authorization of three large national forests units in Wisconsin is under consideration by the National Forest Reservation commission though final action will probably not be taken until next fall.

The largest of the three is known as the Namekagon unit and consists of 227,000 acres in "Washburn and Douglas-cos. The second in size is the Oconto unit, 204,500 acres in Oconto and Langlade-cos; and the third is the Mondeaux unit in northern Taylor-co and consists of about 172,000 acres.

The Oconto unit contains portions of the Oconto, Peshtigo and Wolf rivers. The soil varies from light to heavy sand loam and is very stony. Only a small portion is swamp. The secretary of agriculture reports that the territory included in the unit is forested, cut-over or denuded and that "the control and management of such lands by the federal government will promote the production of timber thereon."

The principal varieties of trees found in this territory are Jack, Norway and white pine and mixed hardwoods. About 75,000 acres are not restocking and would probably require replanting.

The land, which has an average price of $1.75 an acre, is traversed by the Chicago and North Western Railroad and by state and county highways.

About 10,000 acres of the land is owned by the counties; 170,000 acres by large owners, and the remainder by small owners. Because of the almost complete exhaustion of original timber supply, the lumber industry has been reduced to a very low point, the Department of Agriculture reports after a survey, and agricultural development is limited.

The department recommends that the establishment of this unit be approved. It states that the creation of the Oconto unit and of the other two proposed units, Namekagon and Mondeaux will necessitate the establishment of one additional supervisory organization.

Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton is much interested in the Oconto unit and is doing everything in his power to have it approved.

STILL MAKING WHISKY

Mexico City—The United States is still making whisky for popular consumption, but not within its own boundaries. Many of the huge distilleries of pre-Volstead days which functioned in the States are now operating in Mexico. Most of the ingredients used in the manufacture of alcoholic drinks in Mexico are being purchased in the U. S. # STOCK MARKET TRIMMED AGAIN AS RAILS SLUMP

Bullish Element Struggles to Regain Control of Price Movement

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York—(P)—The rail shares again rolled downward in today's stock market, dragging practically the entire list with them.

The struggle to regain control of the price movement during the morning, and managed to lift a wide assortment of issues a point or two, temporarily, including several of the motor, utility, merchandising, and miscellaneous manufacturing issues.

After midday, however, bears worked the brakes loose in the rail group. Particularly unsettling was the appearance of a private estimate that New York Central would earn little more than $1 a share, or half its current dividend rate, in the first quarter. This stock dropped about 5 points. Atchafalaya, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific, Worthington Pump and American Smelting soon showed losses.

FIRM TREND MARKS HOG MARKET TRADE

Offerings Are Limited Throughout Country, Reports Indicate

Chicago—(P)—Firmness marked the hog market as volume of offerings was limited here and throughout the country. Of the 53,000 hogs marketed here, 24,000 were consigned straight to packing plants which kept several carloaders out of initial trading. Shippers bought 170-220 lb. hogs of good to choice quality at 7.25 to 1.40, this being steady to a shade higher than Friday's average price schedule. The weakness which marked trading on the final session last week was dissipated.

Normal receipts of hogs in the local market notwithstanding continued narrow demand gave the trade a slow start and a weak upward trend. All except the choice steers and the latter were fairly plentiful, but specialty demand from eastern points kept buyers from breaking prices. No direct billings to packers were reported. Calf receipts of 2,000 were ample for requirements, and commission men had a major task in holding values steady.

Packers received 5,300 lambs on Thursday, compared with 17,000 estimated for the day by the local market bureau. Demand was not as aggressive but more action than usual was exhibited during the first hour of the session. Strong prices were asked.

WHEAT AT PRICES FALL AS SUPPLY STARTS RISING

Slump Also Influenced by Failure to Confirm Cattle Feeding Forecast

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(P)—Influenced by outright failure of unofficial estimates to confirm forecasts of big feedings of wheat to livestock led to downturns in grain values today. Increases of the visible supply both of wheat and corn tended also to pull prices down. Export business in North American wheat lacked volume.

As outlined by one unofficial authority, the total amount of domestic wheat used for feed this season has been hardly 100,000,000 bushels. As a result, about 476,000,000 bushels would be available, 35,000,000 more than last year. This should provide 313,000,000 bushels for export during the next four months and carry over on July 1, an amount liberally in excess of that of a year previous.

Private figures on the condition of the United States winter wheat crop were 87.5 per cent, against 82.9 last year and a ten-year average of 82. Based on 3 per cent abandonment of seeded acreage, there would be 40,780,000 acres for harvest this season. The present condition suggests a yield of 16 bushels per acre, and a total production of about 650,000,000 bushels, compared with 604,000,000 last year and a five-year average of 550,000,000 bushels. Corn and oats derived firmness from the figures indicating that supposed use of wheat as feed had been exaggerated.

Improved for May, July and September had helped to lift the provision market.
